1 Applicability of the Rule

This Rule is not applicable to Small Cause Courts See O 50 As to the powers of review of Small Cause Courts see S 17 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act and the undermentioned cases 1

2 Form contents and presentation of application

Applications for review should be drawn up in the same manner as ap peals and should set forth concisely the grounds of objections to the decision of which a review is sought without argument or narrative and such grounds should be numbered consecutively 1 The Court should not travel beyond the grounds mentioned in the application 12 According to the High Court of Allaha bad it is not necessary that it should be accompanied by the copy of the decreorder or judgment sought to be reviewed 2 while according to the High Court of Bombay it is necessary to do so 3 The application should be presented to the Judge and not to the Munsarium . The informalities in presenting a review petition cannot be raised after the decree is passed in terms of review 5

The Rule only relates to the form of the application for review It does not extend the right of a party who goes for a review and give him a right of appeal against an order refusing to restore an application for review, by reason of the fact that an appellate order under such circumstances is appealable under O 43 R 1 (f) 6 An application for execution made after 90 days from

1 Legislative changes

(a) The words and the Judge shall record with his own hand his reasons for such opinion which occurred in the concluding part of para 2 of the old section have been omitted

(b) Cl (c) of the old section has been transferred to R 2 of this Order

The other alterations do not involve any alteration in the law

By reasons of the change mentioned in (a) above the decisions mentioned below have been rendered obsolete 1

Where the Court is of opinion st shall grant the same

Where an application for review is made on any of the grounds specified in R 1 and the Court is of opinion that the review should be granted it should be granted 1 It is improper to admit a review petition and hear the case afresh and thereafter dismiss the petition, where, at the re-hearing, the Court comes to the conclusion that there is no reason to interfere, the proper course is not to pass an order dismissing the review application but to pass an order to the same effect as the one under review 2

3 Review without potice to the opposite party

Before granting an application for review it is necessary that notice of the application should be given to the opposite party. Otherwise the order granting review will be a nullity 1 A notice of an application by the plaintiff for review of an order passed in a suit must be served on all the defendants and not merely on the opposing defendants who had appeared when the decree or order sought to be reviewed was passed 2 The reason is that the expression opposite party in proviso (a) of the Rule is not restricted to cases in which such party has actually appeared. It includes all parties interested in supporting the order or decree sought to be set aside 3 There is a difference of opinion as to whether where an appeal is dismissed under O 41 R 11 or a suit is dis missed before summons to the defendant or an application for execution is summarily dismissed before notice to the judgment-debtor, the respondent deferdant or judgment-debtor as the case may be is an opposite part) wathin the meaning of this Rule The High Courts of Madras and Patnas have held that he is, while the High Courts of Calcuttae and Lahore have held that

The expression means the same thing as the expression new and important matter of evidence in R 1 above i See also Notes to R 1, supra 6 Street proof i

No application for review should be granted on the ground of discovery of new matter or evidence which the applicant alleges was not within his knowledge or could not be produced by him when the decree or order was passed or made, without street proof of such allegation 1 Where a Court grants a review without calling for strict proof of the allegation that the new matter was not within the knowledge of the pentioner, the order is in contravention of this Rule and is without jurisdiction 2 Strict proof means anything which may serve directly or indirectly to convince a Court, and has been brought before the Court in legal form and in compliance with the law of evidence. It is the formality of the proof which is presembed and not the sufficiency in the result. Hence, the fact that the evidence adduced is not sufficient to prove the allegation does not make the order granting an application for review one in contravention of the provisions of this Rule within the meaning of R 7 unira 3 It is within the jurisdiction of the appellate Court to say whether the strict proof is according to law or not though the question of the sufficiency or importance of evidence is for the Court admitting the

1 Application for review in Court consisting of two or more Judges

This Rule will apply only in the case of a Court consisting of more than one Judge 12 This Rule applies to High Court also It is not applicable to Small Cause Courts See O 50 A review heard and granted by two Judges of a Court one of whom only was the Judge who passed the decree, is illegal Similarly where one Judge of a Bench of two Judges who disposed of an appeal leaves the Court on a month's leave, the other Judge has no jurisdiction to hear an application for review since the former Judge cannot be said to have ceased to be a member of the Court or to be precluded by absence or other cause for a period of six months next after the application for review 2 But where a Bench of two Judges of a Court has passed a decree or made an order and one of the Judges is absent on leave thus precluding him from considering the decree or order for a period of six months from the date of the application for review, the other Judge is competent to hear the application for review 3 If a review 15 allowed by such single Judge, the matter should be reheard by a Bench of two Judges 4 A District Judge cannot transfer an application for review to the Additional Judge 5

2 Scope and applicability of the Rule

After the expiry of the period of

Under this Rule an order rejecting an application for review to not appealable An order granting an application for review is appealable only on three grounds of objections namely that the application was -

- (a) in contravention of the provisions of R 2
- (b) in contravention of the provisions of R 4
- presented after the expiration of the period of limitation pre (c) scribed therefor and without sufficient cause

Such objection may be taken-

- at once by an appeal from the order granting the application 10 43 R 1 (w) 1 or
- (b) in an appeal from the final decree or order passed or made in the suit (S 105)1

Where an application is dismissed for default of appearance it may be restored on sufficient cause being shown for such non appearance upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as the Court thinks fit and shall appoint a day for hearing the same But no order of restoration should be made without notice to the opposite party

This Rule being inconsistent with S 176 of the Agra Tenanci let 15 not applicable to an order passed by an Assastant Collector Second Class relating to the trial of any suit or application 12 This Rule does not upply 10 the Provincial Small Cause Courts 2 Where the Court actually granted a review though it purported to act under S 112 it was held in the undermenuored case3 that it must be treated as an order under this order and that an appeal lay against the order.

3 Order rejecting review not appealable

I.

An order rejecting an application for review is not appealable 1 As to whether and when the revision will be in such a case, see Note 27 toS 115 and the undermentioned cases.2 As to whether an order rejecting an application for review of judgment is an order made "on appeal" from which an appeal lies to the Privy Council, see Note 5 to $ 109 and the cases cited below 3 As to the powers of revision under S 25 of the Small Cause Courts Act, see the case cated below 4

4 Order granting review, if and when appealable

Under the Code of 1859 there was no appeal even against an order granting a review 1 O 43, R 1 (w) gives a right of appeal against such an order,12 This Rule enacts that in such an appeal only the three grounds of objections specified in this Rule can be raised. Both the Rules must be read together2 and so reading them it follows that there is no appeal even from an order granting a review in cases other than those specified in this Rule 3 Thus where a Court grants a review for sufficient reason the order is not open to appeal. In Bombay O 43, R 1 (w) has been deleted by a rule made by the High Court under S 122 of the Code In Bombay therefore an order granting a review is in any view appealable, only if it falls under this Rule 4a.

Where a decree passed on review cannot be attacked on a ground recognised under this Rule the case cannot be certified as a fit case under S 109, Cl (c) of the Code 5 nor will the mere fact that an appeal is permitted under this Rule make it a fit case for appeal to His Majesity in Council 6

It is open to the appellant to prefer an appeal against an order granting a review, without taking any steps regarding the decree itself 7

As to an appeal from an order granting a review in suits of a Small Cause nature, see Note 19 to S 102 and the undermentioned cases 6

An appeal will be also from an order granting a review of an order passed in execution proceedings 9

5 Grounds of objection in appeal-See Note 4 above

6 Application being in contravention of R 2

An appeal will 1e from an order granting a review on the ground that there is a contravenuon of R 2 1 A, a Distinct Judge passed an order dismissing, an appeal While A was absent, an application for review of the order was presented to the Sub-Judge who ordered notice to issue Subsequently A died and his successor granted a review of the order of dismissal. It was held that the Sub-Judge had no jurisdiction to order notice to issue on the application for review and that an order by the successor of A, granting a review of A is order was under such circumstances in contravention of the provisions of R 2 and an appeal therefore lay under this Rule 2.

7 In contravention of the provisions of R 4

It has been seen in Note 6 to R 4 ante that where a Court grants a review without note e to the opposite party or in cases coming under Cl (b) of sub R 2) of that Rule without calling for strict proof of the allegations referred to therein it acts in contravention of that Rule An appeal will therefore he from such order under the provisions of this Rule As to the meaning of the words strict proof and to the powers of the appellate Court to go in to the question of the sufficiency of the evidence see No e 6 to R 4 ante

8 After the expiry of the period of limitation

An appellate Court cannot entertun an appeal from an order granting review simply on the ground that the application was time-barred. There must also be want of sul/iccent cause for the delay! When an application made beyond the prescribed period is admitted without the Court satisfying itself that there is sufficient cause for delay then the Court acts without jurisdiction? The appellate Court can look into the sufficiency of the cause for the delay allered?

10 Letters Patent appeal

An order refusing an application for review is not a 'judgment' within the meaning of S 15 of the Letters Patent and is not appealable as such 1 An order granting an application for review may amount to a "judgment' within that clause but an appeal will be on the grounds specified in this Rule 2

Where a single Judge disposed of an application for review, when the other Judge was on a month's leave it was held that the order was without jurisdiction and that an appeal lay under Cl 15 of the Letters Patent 3

11 Objection to order granting review may be taken in appeal from the final decree The propriety of an order granting review can also be questioned in the appeal against the final decree but only on the grounds specified in this Rule 1

12 Order granting review in insolvency proceedings, if appealable

A Court exercising powers under the insolvency jurisdiction has the same powers as any other Court under the Code 12 If a review is granted, the order can be objected to in appeal only on the grounds mentioned in this Rule 1

13 Dismissal of application for review for default-No appeal

An order under O 47, R. 7 refusing to re-admit an application for review, dismissed for default is not an appealable order. However, the High Court could in such a case interfere in revision.1

15 Second application for review

T.

There is nothing in the Code of Civil Procedure preventing a second application for review where a previous application for review was made and rejected, provided such second application is based on grounds different from those taken in the first application 1

16 Review without jurisdiction-Revision

The High Court will not interfere with the order of an appellate Court dismissing an appeal against the grant of review unless there is a want of jurisdiction or there is an illegality or material irregularity in passing such an order! nor will it interfere with an interlocutory order granting review for a sufficient reason? But where the first appellate Court allows an appeal against an order granung review on the grounds other than those mentioned in this Rule it acts without jurisdiction and the order is liable to be set aside in revision 3 Where a Court subordinate to the High Court rejects an application for review of judgment refusing to consider the grounds of the same and thus fails to perform its duty it is competent to the High Court under its general powers of superintendence to direct such Court to proceed according to law $2 (See also No e 27 to S 115 ante and the undermentioned cases) 4

In such appeal the Court has full power to go into the ments of the case and see whether the decree was properly passed 2 It could be urged in such an appeal that the Court which admitted the application for review had no juri-diction to do so 3

15 Second application for review

There is nothing in the Code of Civil Procedure preventing a second anpucation for review where a previous application for review was made and rejected, provided such second application is based on grounds different from those taken in the first application 1

16 Review without jurisdiction-Revision

The High Court will not interfere with the order of an appellate Court dismissing an appeal against the grant of review unless there is a want of jurisdiction or there is an illegality or material irregularity in passing such an order1 nor will it interfere with an interlocutory order granting review for a sufficient reason. But where the first appellate Court allows an appeal against an order granung review on the grounds other than those mentioned in this Rule it acts without jurisdiction and the order is hable to be set aside in revision 3 Where a Court subordinate to the High Court rejects an application for review of judgment refusing to consider the grounds of the same and thus fails to perform its duty, it is competent to the High Court under its general powers of superintendence to direct such Court to proceed according to law 3a (See also Note 27 to S 115 ante and the undermentioned cases) 4

Effect of review on the original decree 3 What question may be gone into after the grant of review

1 Procedure on review

from the Rule itself

1

The Rule applies to High Courts and Small Cause Courts There are three stages in the proceedings for review1 -

- (1) An ex parte application and notice thereon
- (2) The hearing of the application after such notice

(3) Re hearing of the case after granting the application for revie This Rule refers to the procedure to be followed when an order granting a review is passed. The Court ought to make a record of the fact that the review has been granted 2 The Court can thereafter proceed to hear the case at once3 or may make such order as to re-hearing as it thinks fit 4 This is clear

2 What question may be gone into after the grant of review

A Court, in granting a review, can make a qualified order as to the extent to which the review should be carried out 1 It is not bound to hear the whole case 2 Nor on the other hand is it restricted to the particular ground on which the application was granted 3 It depends upon the circumstances of each ease whether the whole ease should be re-opened or whether it should be re tried in part only 4 When, on a review application an order dismissing an appeal under O 41 R 11 is set aside the whole appeal may be heard 4 But grounds not mentioned in the memo of appeal cannot be held A party alo

not only had an opportunity of raising a question but who did ruse it in appeal and in the argument abandoned it cannot be allowed to agitate the question again on review 6 The Court has a discretion to receive at the hearing after review, documents which had not been tendered at the original hearing 7 But where a party obtained a review on the ground that upon the record he was eninled to full rebef he sought, the other side cannot be allowed to adduce evidence 4 Whether certain documents which have been admitted as evidence were so admissible or not, is not a point which can be argued on review 9

Ordinarily a party applying for a process on his behalf should pay for the expenses thereof. But the Court has power, under special circumstances, o direct that any other party shall bear the expenses 1 But the words unless the Court otherwise directs should not be construed as giving the Court any power to remit the fees leviable under the Court Fees Act 2 The Court should under Cl 2 of the rule fix a time for the payment of process fee and it is only in default of payment within such time that it can dismiss suit for default. Where no such time is fixed in the order, a dismissal for non payment of process fees is not proper 3 The time that a Court fixes for payment must be such as to give reasonable facilities to a litigant to obey such order and thus enable him to get the aid of the Court in the matter of summoning his witnesses an order to pay process at once is against the spirit of the Rule 4

1 Legislative changes The word agree basheen submitted for the vague vord de ire as being a more definite and legal expression.<sup>1</sup> 2 Scape of the Schedule

The law of arbitration in British India is to be found in this. Code and in the Arbitration Act, 1899. The Code deals both with arbitrations pending high tion, and with arbitrations without recourse to litigation. The Arbitration ict, on the other hand, applies only to arbitrations by agreement unthout the interaction of the Court of justice, and only in cases where, if the subject matter submitted to arbitration were the subject of a suit, the suit could be instituted in a Presidency Town or other local area to which the Act is made applicable by the Local Government. Where the Act applies, Parigraphs 17 to 23 of the Second Schedule (dealing with references to arbitration without the intervention of the Court) do not apply?

The Act was passed to remedy two defects that were supposed to exist in the provisions as to arbitration enacted in the old Code, 212 —

- (1) That the Code did not apply to cases where the dispute which was the subject of reference did not arise at the date of the agreement to refer. In other words where an agreement was entered into to settle differences that may arise in future by arbitration, and a dispute subsequently arose between the parties, the agreement to refer could not be filed in Court under the provisions of the Code.
- (2) That the Code applied only to cases where the agreement to refer named the arbitrator or stated that he should be appointed by the Court

The first of these defects was, however, removed by a Full Bench decision of the High Court of Bomhay in Fazulbhoy Mehral Chinoy v The Bombay and Persia Steam Natigation Company, Ltd, <sup>18</sup> in which it was held that on a correct interpretation of the Code, it applied also to agreements to refer future disputes to arbitration. The second defect also has now been removed by the omission from Paragraph I7 of this Schedule, of the procisions requiring the arbitrator to be usined At present, therefore, there is no material difference between the provisions of the Code and those of the Arbitration Act as regards references without the interrent tion of the Court, except that the latter applies to particular local areas, and the former applies to other parts of British India.

In Ghulam Khan v Muhammad Hassan, h their Lordships of the Priv. Council had occasion to consider the true construction and effect of the provision of the Code relating to arbitration and they observed that those provisions deal with arhitrations under three heads—

(1) Where the parties to a litigation desire to refer to arbitration and matter in difference between them in the suit. In that case all proceedings from first to last are under the supervision of the Court. (Paragraphs 1 to 16 deal with such matters).

- (2) Where the parties, without recourse to litigation, agree to refer their differences to arbitiation and it is desired that the agreement of reference should have the sanction of the Court In that case all further proceedings are under the supervision of the Court (Paragraphs 17 to 19 of the Schedule deal with such matters)
- (3) Where the agreement of reference is made and the arbitration itself takes place without the interiention of the Court, and the assistance of the Court is only sought to give effect to the award (Paragraphs 20 to 23 of the schedule deal with these matters )

3 Applicability of the Schedule to insolvency proceedings

The previsions of this Schedule do not apply to proceedings under the Provincial Insolvency Act 1920 by virtue of S 5 of that Act An Insolvency Court has therefore no power to refer the whole proceedings to arbitrators to decide whether the petitioner for insolvency or (in the case of a petition by a creditor) the debtor should or should not be declared an insolvent. The proceedings require the exercise of judicial discretion and it would be acting contrary to the whole spirit of the Act for a Court which has special jurisdiction thereunder to delogate its powers and duties to the arbitrator 1

4 Applicability of the Schedule to execution proceedings

This Schedule does not apply to execution proceedings and a Court executing a decree cannot refer the matter in the execution proceedings to arbitration 1

5 Applicability of the Schedule to probate proceedings

A dispute relating to the genuineness of a will in a probate proceeding pending before Court cannot be referred to arbitration 1 So also an application for revocation of the grant of a probate cannot be referred to arbitration 2 This is based on the view that a decision on such questions is not morely one inter partes but is a judgment in rem against the whole world and therefore cannot be allowed to be decided by arbitrators selected at the instance of merely the parties to the proceeding

6 Applicability of the Schedule to suits for restitution of conjugal rights

The factum or validity of a marriage may in a suit for the restitution of conjugal rights be referred to arbitration 1 but the whole suit cannot be referred to arbitration masmuch as the question whether a decree for restitution should be made or not is a matter entirely in the discretion of the Court and cannot be delegated to arbitiators 2

6a Arbitration in proceedings under other Acts

1 Section 52 of the Bengal Estates Partition Act (V of 1897) provides that when a partition has been referred to arbitration the proceedings shall be

- 3 Under S 43 of the Beugal Survey Act (V of 1875) and S 16 of the Burma Boundaries Act (V of 1880), the Collector or the Boundary Officer may, with the consent of the parties concerned, lefer to arbitration any dispute 18 to a boundary
- 4 In cases of reforence the arbitration under S 203 of the U P Land Revenue Act (III of 1901) the provisions of Paragraphs 2 to 16 of this Schedule shall apply, so far as they are not inconsistent with maything in that Act (See S 204 of the Act)

7 All parties interested must agree to reference

The agreement to refer the matter in dispute in a pending suit must have the concurrence of all the parties concerned. In other words the foundation of the jurisdiction of the Court in make an order of reference is en agreement between all thin persons interested. An order of reference made by the Court where all the parties interested have not agreed, is thue without jurisdiction and invalidation of only against thin absent party, but against all parties, i.e., even these who have joined in the reference. As subsequent consent by one of the parties who did not join in the reference at the time, it was made, cannot make the precedings valid.

and an award made on such reference is void and need not be set aside <sup>4</sup> An objection to the validity of the reference on the ground of the non-agreement of all the puttes can be mised at any stage. The decision cited below <sup>9</sup> where it was held that a party may be estopped by his conduct from contesting a reference to which he was no matter cannot be accepted on principle as confect.

Section 306 of the old Code provided that all the parties to the sun may apply for a reference to irbitiation. But it was held by the High Court of All-habad that the words "all the parties to is sun!" would not necessarily include parties between whom and any of the parties to the submission there was, in fact, no matter in difference in the sun!? The word "interested" was added in the present Code to give effect to the above view.

The expression "all pirites interested" means parties interested in the sp.c.i/ie dispute referred to arbitration and not in the subject matter of the whole surt" Where parties have distinct and severable interests, a party interested only in one such portion need not join in a reference with respect to the other portions  $^{10}$

The question whether a party is interested within the menning of this Palty graph depends upon the facts of each case  $^{11}$ . 10 Matter in difference

The matter in difference is the matter is dispute between the parties 1 A dispute implies an assertioe of a light by one party and the repudiation thereof by another 2 It is not however occessary that the question should be one which the Court one legally enquire into Thus a dispute as to an uscertified payment or adjustment which the Court cannot take eotice of, can be a matter in difference between the parties which can be referred to arbitration

The matter in difference must be one which has actually arisen at the time of the reference though it eeed not have arisen at the time of the agreement to refer There can be no reference to arbitration under this Schodule of existing differences as well as disjutes that may arise in the future 5 A dispute may exist even where the hability is fully admitted and only the payment is withheld facts of each case must be examined to see whether there is a dispute 6

Further the matter in difference must be one arising in the suit and between the parties to the suit The Court has no power to refer to arbitration any questions between the parties to the suit other than those in question in the suit, or any questions in which any person, not a party to the suit is concerned 7

A reference is competent on a question of law as well as a question of fact 8 Consequently, an error made by the arbitrators on a point of law referred to them does not vitiate the award and cannot be questioned on the ground that it is not in accordance with the received interpretation of the law but the matter in difference must relate only to the private rights of the parties to the litigation A suit under S 92 of the Code is not one for the determination of the private rights of the parties to the hitigation, and matters in such a suit cannot be referred to arbitration 10 Similarly the selection of a guardian for a minor in a proceeding under the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890 is not a matter of private interest and cannot be settled by reference to arbitratioe 11 It has been held that a criminal complaint cannot be referred to arbitration 12

Where a question arises as to what the matter was that was referred to arbitration, it is for the Court to say on a construction of the reference The arbitrator's belief about it is immaterial 18 Where a whole case is referred to arbitration the question of costs also must be taken to have been referred and the arbitrators can give a decision thereon 16 (See also Paragraph 13 below)

Where an order of reference to arbitration is made through Court, all subsequent proceedings are, as has been seen in Note 2 abovo, under the supervision of the Court Consequently a party to the agreement to refer is not entitled to terminate the reference by any revocation on his part. He is bound by it and the arbitiation must proceed according to the provisions of the law 1 The Court may, however supersede the ribitration on the application of the parties in the cases specified in Purigraphs 5 and 8 of the Schodule There is a conflict of opinion whether even the Court can reveke the arbitration in cases not falling within the sud Paragriphs According to the decisions cited below the Churt has no power to deal with the matter in difference between the parties until the award is made Thus the Court could not even allow the withdrawal of the suit after an order of reference has been made, though if there is any partiality or misconduct on the part of the arbitrator, the Court could, after the award is made, set it aside on the other hand it has been held in the undermentioned cases that there is an

This view proceeded on the principle that an arbitrator was, in the contemplation of the law, merely an agent appointed by the parties to decide the matter in dis pute between them 1 Tho law in this country is however quito the reverse, and the death of a party pending arbitration proceedings through Court does not necessarily revoke the reference 2 If on the death of the party the right to sue survives to his representatives, they should be brought on record under the provisions of O 22 3 Where no application is made within time for hringing the legal representatives on the record, and the suit abates, the award made by the arbitrators subsequent thereto cannot be filed in Court 4

In a proceeding before the arbitrator on a reference made without the inter cention of the Court, there is no provision of law enabling the arbitrator to bring the legal representatives of a deceased party, to the submission on record, and the fact that the arbitrator failed to do se does not make the award illegal and not hinding on the representatives especially where the party dies after the hearing is termiouted and nothing remains for the arbitrators to do but to deliver their award 6

18 Authority of pleader to refer

Section 506 of the old Code required a special authority for a pleader to make a reference to arbitration on behalf of his client 1 In the present Para graph the words as to special authority have been omitted. It has been held by the Sind Judicial Commissioner's Court that the effect of the omis sion is to coable a pleader to make a reference to arbitration oven though the vakulatnama does not specifically authorise into does of The general trend of opinion is, however, that a pleader has no such authority. A counsel as distinguished from a pleader who derives his authority only from the valulatnama, has implied authority even to make a reference to arbitration 4 But ooither a counsel nor a pleader expressly authorised to refer to arbitration can delegate his power to roles to arbitration to another pleader without express authorisation to that effect 8 Nor will the reference to arbitration by the counsel of a party be binding on the party where he had given the couesel express costructions against making any such reference 6 A pleader has no authority to revoke the appointment of an

19 Authority of agent to refer,

The authorised agent of a party within the meaning of O. 3, Rr. 1 and 2, can make a reference on behalf of his principal. No special power of authorisation is, however, necessary to enable him to do so. The principal can also subsequently ratify the agent's act in referring to arbitration, even where the agent had originally no authorist to do so. A partner is an agent of the firm only for the purpose of the business of the firm. It is out part of the business of the firm to refer matters in dispute to arbitration and therefore one partner cannot, as such, make or authorise a reference to arbitration on behalf of the firm. But the managing partner of the firm curvalidly make a reference to arbitration so as to bind the firm.

20 Authority of guardian or manager of a joint Hindu family

The next friend or natural guardian of a minor is entitled to refer disputes to arbitration, where there is no pending suit in respect of it, if the same is for the benefit of the minor and the ward passed on such a reference will be binding on the minor. It to the powers of a guardian ad litem to agree to refer the subject-matter of the suit to arbitration, see Note 15 to O 3.2, R 7 and the undermentioned case. The manager of a joint Hoody family represents the other members of the family and can refer the family disputes to arbitration.

are the matters in difference between the parties on which the arbitrator is required to arbitrate 1 If the agreement is so vague as to make it impossible to ascertain what the dispute was which was referred to arbitration, it is bad for indefiniteness 2 The Paiagraph requires that the agreement to refer shall be in unting Where there is no written reference and there is nothing to show what the parties agreed to refer, the reference and the award will be invalid 3 But the provision as to the requirement of writing is only directory and not mandatory the object thereof being merely to avoid a subsequent controversy as to whether there was or was not any such application . An award is not therefore invalid merely because it was not made in writing if it is clear that the parties did agree to refer 5 In the undermentioned case an application for an adjournment on the ground that the parties had referred the dispute to arbitration was assumed to be an application for an order of reference. It was however held in the case cited below that the requirement as to writing, cannot be said to be directory but that nevertheless the parties were estopped from defeating the arbitration proceedings on the ground of non compliance with the Paragraph The High Court of Bombay has also held that want of writing undermines the foundation of jurisdiction but that it is not sufficient by itself, to set aside the award 8 These two cases cannot it is submitted, he accepted as correct on principle. The breach of a mandatory provision or the want of jurisdiction will render the proceedings void and there can be no question of estoppel

Where the parties have agreed and applied to the Court for a reference the mere fact that one of them has not signed the application does not vitiate the reference Where the pleader of a party duly authorised signs the reference the fact that the party himself does not sign it will not invalidate the award 10 It was

P. 2. [S 507, Para 1.] The arbitrator shall be appointed in such manner as may be agreed upon between the parties

[1877-S 507, Para 1; 1859-S 314]

Synopsis

Appointment of arbitrator 1 trator—See Aota 22 to Paragraph 1
Appointment of Court itself as arbi

1 Appointment of arbitrator

It is essential that the parties should either name the arbitrators or consent to the nomination of the arbitrators by the Court. The Court has no authority to force upon a reluctant party the decision of any question in the cause by an litrators elected at its discretion. A party may however waive such an irregularity but if he appears before the arbitrator under protest, he cannot be held to have forfeited his right to question the validity of the proceedings.

Before the Court refers a case to arbitration it should ascertain whether the persons nominated are willing to accept the office and till then it cannot make a reference?

The Court shall by order refer

As has been seen in Note 13 to Paragraph 1 ante where the parties apply to the Court for an order of reference the Court is bound to make an order of reference and has no discretion in the matter. In the absence of an order of reference by the Court under this Paragraph the arhitration proceedings and the award made therein are illegal 1 Where the parties applied for adjournment of the suit from time to time on the ground that the matters in dispute had been referred to arbitration and the Court granted time it was held that the order granting adjournment on the application of the parties should under the circumstances of the case be construed as an order of reference 2

3 Revocation or withdrawal from arbitration See Notes 14 15 and 17 to Paragraph 1 ante

Matter in difference

See Note 10 to Paragraph 1 Where it is found that one matter in difference agreed to be referred has been omitted from the reference and that consequently the arbitrators have not given any decision thereon the party interested should bring the omission to the notice of the Court so that the Court may send the case

baca to the arbitrators with a fresh reference on the point omitted. If he does not do so, the Court is not wrong in deciding the point itself 1. The decision of the arbitrators on matters not in dispute, nor referred to them is null and youd for want of purisdiction 3

Shall fix such time as it considers reasonable

The e words are mandatory and imperative and the Court is bound to fix in its order of reference a time for the making of the award 1 This fixing of a limit of time is in fact the pillar and pivot of the scheme of this Schedule, enabling the Court to have control over the arbitrators, and the power cannot be delegated to the arbitrators themselves But where the order of reference does nx a time but describes it as one fixed for the hearing of the suit instead of for making the award there is only an irregularity which may not vitiate the reference 3 An award made beyond the time fixed is liable to be set aside under Paragraph 15, infra, though an award made within the time fixed but filed after time is not had 6

As to the power of the Court to extend time fixed see Paiagraph 8 below

6 Court if can extend time fixed See Paragraph 8 infra

7 When award is said to be made

It is the making of the award that should be within the time fixed The filing thereof into Court after the time fixed will not vitiate the award 1 Under the old Code the word used was delivery and even then it was interpreted to mean only the making of the award as distinguished from its being filed in Court 3

1 Scope of the Paragraph

Where two or more arbitrators are appointed, the Court is bound to provide, in its order of reference, for a difference of opinion among the arbitrators, in the manner specified in this Paragraph. Where no such provision was made, and there having been a difference of opinion among the arbitrators the Court decided the case itself on the avidence given before the arbitrators, the High Court reminded the case to the lower Court to make a fresh submission to the arbitrators after complying with the requirements of this Paragraph. Where, however, under similar circumstances the lower Court decided the case on oxidence taken before itself it was held by the High Court that it would not be right to remind the case for a fresh reference? An arbitrator cannot bimself be appointed as an umpire under this Paragraph  $^{3}$

2 Decision of majority-Clause (b)

Unless the order of reference provides that the decision of the majority or the uniprice, if any, shall prevail the award must be by all the arbitrators. An award by only a majority of the arbitrators in such cases is not valid. If however the application for the order of reference provides that the opinion of the majority shall prevail, the fact that the order of reference does not refer to it will not in validate the award by the majority of the arbitrators. The reason is that the authority of the Court to make a reference depends upon the agreement of the parties that if the parties agree that the opinion of the majority shall prevail the only order that the Court could pass is an order of reference to that effect and that it should therefore be deemed to have passed the order that it ought to have passed. Where one of the parties to a reference is a minor, his guardian can consent to abide by the decision of a majority of the arbitrators. But the fact that reither the application for an order of reference nor the order of reference makes any such provision as provided by the Rearapalp will not nullify an anonimous

Unless the order of reference provides that the decision of the majority or the unipre, if any, shall provail, the award must be by all the arbitrators. If however the application for the order of reference provides that the opinion of the majority shall presail, the fact that the order of reference does not lefer to it will not in validate the award by the majority of the arbitrators. The reson is that the order of the Court to make a reference depends upon the agreement of the parties that if the parties agree that the opinion of the majority shall provail the only order that the Court could pass is an order of reference to that effect, and that it should therefore be deemed to have passed the order that it ought to have passed. It should be noted that even if a provision is made in the order of reference that the decision of the majority shall prevail it is essential that all the arbitra tors should be present at the deliberations. If they are present at the proceedings but some of them thereafter express their dissent and leave the place, the deci sion of the majority will he perfectly valid 6 But if they are not so present and do not take part in the deliberations, the award is invalid and not binding on the parties? 3 Appointment of umpire by arbitrators

When an umpire is appointed he is under no obligation to agree with one or other of the dissenting arbitrators. He is entitled to settle the matter in his own way according to what he thinks proper He need not confer with the arbi trators 1

4 Extension of time for submission by umpire

The umpire has the same powers as the arbitrators and could by application get extension of time for filing his award See Paragraph 8 below

5 Delegation of duty by arbitrators

The arbitrators appointed by Court under this Schedule cannot delegate their authority to a third person12, nor can the parties by their consent confer such a power on the arbitrators in derogation of the Court's older 1

But an arbitrator may delegate to a third person the perfermance of any acts which are merely ministerial in their nature 2

Where the arbitrators are empowered to choose an umpire, they have them selves to make the choice and ought not to delegate it to a third person 3

2 Appointment of new arbitrator or umpire

Under Ss 507 and 510 of the old Codo where the arbitrator nominated refuse I to accept the office the Court could not appoint a new arbitrator unless all the narties desired the Court to do so but that where the arbitrator after accepting the office refused to act the Court may appoint an arbitrator on the application of some only of the parties 1 In Sadik Hussain v Kaniz Zhora Begam 2 the Judicial Committee pointed out on a true construction of S 510 that there is no room for such a distinction and that the expression refuses to act in S 510 included also a case where an arbitrator relused to accept the office inasmuch as the acceptance of the office was the first essential act of an arbitrator The omis sion of the words and the parties desire etc has brought the present Paragraph in conformity with the decision of the Privy Council The Court can under the present Paragraph appoint an arhitrator without the consent of all the parties in both cases 112 where an arbitrator refuses to accept the office as well as where he refuses to act though this can be done only on application by either party and after notice to the opposite party adjudication of disputes by arbitrators should be the result of their free con entito undertake the duties of arbitrating between the contending parties. The finality of an award is based on the principle that the arhitrators are judges chosen by the parties themselves and are willing to settle the disputes referred to them Hepce where an arbitrator refuses to act the Court bas no power to compel him to arbitrate against his will 1 The duty of the Court in such a case is either to appoint a new arbitrator or supersede the reference and proceed with the suit If the Court does neither of these two things the further proceedings in arbitra tion and the resulting award thereon are initial's But an arbitrator has full power to retract his resignation before it is accepted and acted upon by the Court and an award made subsequent to such retraction is not invalid by reason of the original refusal to act * Similarly if the Court asks the arbitrator to reconsider his refusal or resignation and he thereupon agrees to act and proceeds to arbitrate the award will not be invalid 3

A refusal on the part of the arbitrator to act can be implied from his conduct as for instance where he fails to submit the award within the tme fixed 6

4 Arbitrator becoming incapable of acting

When an arbitrator becomes meapable of acting by reason, for example of illness the Court can supersede the reference or appoint a new arbitrator 1 The Court can act similarly when an umpire leaves British India and there is no evidence to show his intention to return at an early date *

5 Appointment of new arbitrator

Before the Court proceeds to make a new appointment under this Palagiaph not only should one of the conditions mentioned in Cls (a) and (b) happen but the requirement as to the notice to the opposite party should also be fulfilled 1 If the Court proceeds to make an appointment without such notice it acts with material irregularity 2

Where however the parties by mutual agreement make a change in the personnel of the arbitrators without the intervention of the Court and carry on the irbitration proceedings the award is not invalid by reason of the omission to follo v the procedure prescribed by this Paragraph The reason is that the very found ution of arbitration proceedings is the consent of the parties and such consent will cure any defect in the matter of procedure 3

But it is not bound to do so in all cases. It has a discretion either to appoint the arbitrator of to supersede the reference 5 In making a new appointment the Court has no power to compel an unwilling party to pay remineration to the arbitrator chosen by it especially wl ere there is no provision for the same in the original reference of

6 Appointment of an umpire

The power of the Court to appoint an umpue under this Para is not unlimited but is controlled and limited by the terms of the agreement between the parties as to what course is to be adopted if there is a difference of opinion among the arbitrators. Thus where the terms of the submission to arbitration were that an umpire should be selected from out of seven persons named therein and the unique first chosen declined to act it was held that the Court could not ignore the remaining six persons and appoint a strugger is an umpire and that the (ward in such a case was not valid 1

7 Order superseding arbitration

The Court cannot supersede the reference under this Paragraph unless the conditions prescribed herein are fulfilled 1 Thus an accusation of partiality against the arhitrator or an allegation that an umpire has been tampered with or the fact that one of the parties fails to pay his share of the remuneration fixed for the arbitrator are not grounds for superseding the reference under this Paragraph

The Court cannot suo motu supersede the reference without there being any application by the parties and without the procedure as to notice being complied with. Nor can a mere agreement of the parties to refer the matter to a nerson other than the arbitrator already chosen have the effect of super seding the reference

Where the Court decides to supersede the reference it is bound to proceed with the suit. Where there is no suit pending and the Court has dis charged itself of the I is by passing a final decice it cannot supersede the reference. Thus, where the parties to a suit settled their disputes as to partition but agreed that the shares should be worked out and properties allotted by certain arbitrators and the Court passed a decree in pursuance of the settlement under S 375 (now O 23 R 3) and subsequently one of the substra tors declined to act as an arlutrator the Judicial Committee held that the Court could not supersede the reference and allot the shares. It put an end to the suit and that was the very object of the compromise The alternative in S 510 is impossible because there is no suit now pending with which the Court can proceed All that the Courts in India could do was to take advantage of the sections of the Code which enabled them to keep the machinery of arbitration going

Where an arbitration fails and the Court decides to supersede the reference, it ought not to dispose of the suit at once without fixing a date for its hearing and giving due notice thereof to the parties 8 But the Court need not consider a second reference to arbitration when it decides to go on with the case 9

An order superseding an arbitration can be implied as where the arbitrators refuse to act and the Court proceeds to try the suit 10

8 Revision

3 Extension of time

The Court cau extend the time fixed for making an award at any time defore the award is actually made even though the time originally fixed mis have expired at the time of such further extension 1 But when once an award is minds. the power of the Court to grant further time under the Paragraph broad-spent and cannot be exercised thereafter. Nor has the Court power under S 1 at of the Code to extend the time in such a case, for that section does not enable the Court to extend the time for the doing of any particular act when in trath and in fact the act has already been done Where, however, an award : mpif signed but not announced to the parties or sent to Court, the award cannot be said to be finally made and complete, and an order of extension of time sub street to such signing is not invalid. On an application for extension of time under this Paragraph, the Court should, as has been seen in Noto 5 to Para 3 above, itself, bx the further time and cannot delegate the power to do to the arbitrators

As will be seen from the Notes to Para 15, infra, an award passed out of time is not a nullity under the present Code Consequently the parties may, in such cases, be estopped by their conduct from disputing the validity thereof 1

5 Or may make an order superseding the reference

The Court has a discretion under this Paragraph oither to extend the time fixed for the award or to supersede the reference 14. Thus, where the arbitrators are quilty of neglect in submitting their award in spite of several extensions of time the Court can supersede the reference and proceed with the suit 1 But the Court has no jurisdiction to deal with the suit and cannot dismiss it for default until and unless it supersedes the reference 2 An order superseding the releience need not, however be express. It can be implied from the procedure adopted by the Court 3

As already seen in Note 5 to Para 3 above an award made within time but filed into Court later is not invalid and the Court cannot supersede the reference in such a case *

Where the Court supersedes the reference it cannot straightaway dispose of the suit on the same day It should by a date for the hearing and give duo notice of the same to the parties 5 As to whether the Court has power to set aside an order superseding the reference, see the case cited below a

Umpire when empowered to arbitrate in lieu of arbitrators Note No 1

1 Umpire when empowered to arbitrate in lieu of arbitrators

An umpire can enter on the reference and himself make the award only in two cases

- Where the arhitrators have allowed the appointed time to expire without making an award
- (2) When they have delivered to the Court or to the umpire a notice in writing stating that they cannot agree 1

Thus where one of several arbitrators absented himself from the arbitrat on proceedings and after the expiry of the time fixed for the award the umpre approached the Court for direction it was beld that Cl (a) applied to this ca s and the umpire was himself entitled to make an award 2 An umpire is under po obligation to agree with one or others of the dissenting arbitrators or to confer with them but is entitled to settle the matter in his own way according to what he thinks proper 3 But where the agreement of reference provides that the umpire should agree with one or other of the sets of the dissenting arbitrators an award by the umpire which agrees with neither of the two sets of arbitrators is not valid 4

Even in a case where an umpire has been appointed and the arbitrators have allowed the appointed time to expire without making an award the Court has jurisdiction to extend the time under Para 8 ante See also Note 3 to Para 8 ante escential that all of them should sign the award. Where however, the parties agree to be bound by the decision of the majority, it is enough if the award is signed by the majority of the arbitrators. An award made by more persons than those amounted is invalid, unless the parties acquiesce in the same.

It is not necessary in the case of several arbitrators that all of them—should sign the award at the same time, and in the same place? Where an award is duly signed the fact that it is not stumped or that the fair copy of the award is not signed by all of them? would not affect the validity of the award. But where an arbitrator signs a blank paper before the decision is embedded in it—the award is not properly signed?

When once an award is made the substrators become functus officie and they have no power to alter 10 or review 12 the award, unless the Court or the parties by consent remit the matter to them for reconsideration 13. In the case cited below 11 twas held that an arhitrator was justified in refusing to sign the award before it was engrossed on stamp paper although he had signed the increaserandium of award on the ground that owing to some misunderstanding in the language his opinion had to be chained

The provisions of this Paragiaph apply only to a reference to arbitration through the intertention of the Court and not to an award made on a private reference out of Court. The award in the latter case is not invalid by reason of the want of signituse of the orbitrators. The reason is that a private award can ovom he amoral one and an award in ariting will not be less valid because it was not signed by the arbitrators.

The report of arbitrators embodying a compromise arrived at between the parties subsequent to the inference is not an award 15

2 Necessity of presence of arbitrators at meetings

Where there are several arbitrators appointed it is essential for the validity of the award that all of them should be present at all the meetings including the last, that variesses should be examined in their presence and all of them should act together and give the award 1 See also Note 2 to Para 4 ante. 3 Together with any depositions and documents

Though this Paragraph contemplates the possibility of the depositions of witnesses being reduced to writing by the arbitrators, it does not oblige them to keep such a record 1 The mere fact that an arbitrator has omitted to file along with his award the depositions of the witnesses examined by him or the documentary evidence filed before him will not justify the Court in holding on that ground that the award is invalid though it may lead to the conclusion that the arbitrator has not acted in accordance with law and is guilty of misconduct as stated in Para 152

In arbitrator should not permit the removal of documents entrusted to him and forming part of the record 3 He should return them to the Court The Court can also call upon him to give up the same to the Court when his right to keep them as arbitrator has come to an end *

4 Notice of the filing shall be given

The provisions of this Paragraph are mandatory and the Court is bound to give notice of the filing of the award to the parties 2 Under Article 153 of the Limitation Act, the parties are entitled to ten days time for filing their objections to the award and such period is to be computed from the date on which the notice is given 2 The omission to give notice is a material irregularity and affords a ground for interference by the High Court in revision 3 If a decree is passed in terms of the award without the notice required by this Paragraph to be given the decree is had and is liable to be set aside

There is a conflict of opinion as to whether a formal notice under this Paragraph is necessary where the parties are made aware of the filing of the award without such formal notice Iu the undermentioned cases it has been held that where the parties are made aware of the filing of the award, the absence of a formal notice would not vitiate the proceedings A contrary view, namely that a formal notice under this Paragraph is necessary and knowledge altende is not

tions of fact and law, however erroneous they may be, and the Court has no power to alter or vary the award except in the limited manner prescribed by the Paragraph. Where a dispute is referred to arbitration and the arbitrators are empowered to decide upon all the points involved in it, the arbitrators have full power not only to fix the liability between the parties but also the manner in which such liability is to be discharged. Thus the arbitrators can order the amount due to the plaintiff to be paid by instilments, and the Court cannot interfere with such a direction in the award. Nor can the Court add a direction of its own to the award. It is well settled that a Court acts without jurisdiction if it modifies an award because it takes a different view from that held by the arbitrators.

Where the Court modifies an award under this Paiagraph, it is the modified award and not the original award with which the decree should account.

The provisions of this Paragraph apply only to an awaid made through the interiention of the Court the Court has no power under this Puragraph to modify or correct an award made on a private reference out of Court <sup>5</sup>

2 'Part of the award is upon a matter not referred to arhitration

An award should be made with reference to the points in dispute referred to them by the parties. Where the award decides mitters extraneous to the reference the award is not valid unless that portion which is in excess can be separated from the rest and does not affect the decision on the matter referred to. In the latter case, the Court can under Clause (a) give effect to the valid portion of the award ignoing the rest. Where no separation is possible, the Court can remit the award to the arbitrators for reconsideration under Para 14 and if they fail to reconsider it the award becomes void by virtue of Paus 15.

Paragraph 12, ante, enables the Court to modify or correct an award under certain circumstances This Paragraph empowers the Court to remit the award to the arbitrator himself for reconsideration where there are omissions or defects therein which are such as cannot be modified or corrected by the Court itself under Paragraph 12 1 The Court is, however, confined to the specific grounds mentioned in this Paragraph and has no power to remit an award on other grounds 2

It may be that the portion objected to has an intimate connection with the portion which is not objected to The arbitrators, therefore, must be given a free hand to recast the award" . The Judicial Commissioner's Court of Sind has held that where an award is bad as to a part only and is sent back as to that alone, the arbitrator is functus officeo as to the good parts and cannot after his judgment as to them 5 It is submitted, that the former view is correct. When the Court decides to remit the award under this Paragraph, it is not final6 and so long as it is not final and is in the hands of the arbitrator, it can be altered by him 68

The Court has a discretion to remit or not to remit an award 7 Thus, where there is any circumstance in the position of the arbitrator such as tends to produce a hias in his mind, the Court will in its discretion, refuse to remit the award to the arbitrator for reconsideration 8

Where the arbitrators have not, in their award, decided any matter referred to them, the Court may, under Cl (a), temit the award for reconsideration 1 "The ground upon which an award which does not dispose of all the matters referred has been held to be invalid appears to be that there is an implied condition that it shall do so 3 But it is open to the parties to waive this condition 3 Thus, where all the parties agree before the arbitrator that an incomplete award may be made or where they all represent that there is no longer any controversy between them upon a particular point, the fact that the award is incomplete or silent on such point will not vitiate it 4 An award cannot be said to be incomplete because,

4 Award determining matter not referred to arbitration

It is a fundamental priociple of the Law of Arbitration that the submission furnishes the source and prescribes the limits of the arbitrators authority and that therefore the award must conform to the submission both in substance and in form 1 Consequently if the award decides matters out within the scope of the submission it is void as regards the portion in excess of the submission. It such portion is however, separable from and independent of the remainder effect can be given to the rest of the award 18 but if the extraneous matters cannot be so separated without affecting the determination of the matters referred the Court may remit the award for reconsideration 3

Where the award is so indefinite as to be meapable of execution

An award to be capable of execution ought to be certain so that no reason able doubt can arise upon the face of it as to the arbitrators meaning or as to the nature and extent of the right and duties imposed by it upon the parties 1 The fact that a particular expression used in an award is capable of more than one interpretation does not show, that it is so indefinite as to be incapable of execu tion Where the arbitrators give the method for calculating the amount awarded without specifying the actual amount due the award can be considered as suffici ently certain masmuch as the actual result can be worked out 3

6 Where an objection to the legality of the award is apparent upon the face of it. It has been seen to Note 10 to Paragraph 1 ante that parties are entitled to

aubmit quastions of law as well as questions of fact for arbitration and that the arbitrators have jurisdiction to decide the same Where they so decide a question apecifically submitted to thom for decision but such decision happens to be erro neous in law it cannot nevertheless be said that there is any error apparent on the face of the award, and the Court has no right to sit in judgment over the views of the arbitrator 2 Illustration

It has been already mentioned above that an error of law, in order to vitate an award, must be apparent on the face of the award or some other document attached to the award. Thus where a dispute arising out of a contract is metered to arbitrators and a reference is made in the award to a contention of one party, it does not open the door to seeing first what the contention is and then going to the contract on which the rights of parties depend to see if that contention is sound <sup>10</sup> Similarly, where an award makes an allusion to the contract tery guardedly and for the purpose only of ear marking the origin of the dispute in question it does not enable a party to contend that the contract was incorporated into the award by the reference mentioned above and them to say that the award discloses an error in law in construing the terms of the contract.

7 Remillal of private awards

Where an awaid is made without the intervention of a Court and as application is made under Para 20, nufra to file the award, the Court may under Para 21, file the award it oo seek ground as is mentioned in Paras 14 and 15 is proved. But the fact that there are any of the grounds specified in this Paragraph does not empower the Court to remit the award for reconsideration of the arbitrations as in the case of an award made through the intervention of the Court. Therefore, if the award leaves undetermined any of the matters referred to arbitration or is so indefinite as to be incapable of execution; the award is intalled and the application under Para 20 must be dismissed. But where the award determines any matter not referred to arbitration and such matter can be separated without affecting the determination of the matters referred, the whole award is not invalid and the decisioos on the portions in excess of the authority of the arbitrators can be treated as null and void.

8 Limitation

Article 158 of the Limitation Act does not apply to proceedings under this Paragraph and, therefore, there is no period of limitation for making an application under this Palagraph to remit an awaid for the reconsideration of the arbitrators 1

9 Appeal

An order remitting or refusing to remit an award for the reconsideration of the arbitiators is not appealable. Where an award is remitted under this Paragraph and the arbitrators refuse to reconsider the award which consequently hecomes void under Para 15, infra and the Court ultimately passes a decree on the merits, the legality of the order remitting the award may be challenged in an appeal against the decree 3 See also S 105. Note 6, Pt 3 But where after remittal, the arbitrators submit a fresh award and the Court passes a decree in accordance with the revised award no appeal will he from such decree on the ground that the order of remutal under this Paragraph was wrong and that the original award ought to have been accepted and acted upon a See also notes to Para 16 infra

10 Revision

The High Court cannot interfere in revision with an order of the Court remitting an award for reconsideration of the arbitrators 1

11 Arbitration under other Acts-See Note 6 a to Para 1

In an arbitration proceeding regarding boundary disputes under S 120 of the Bomhay Land Revenue Code (V of 1879) the Superintendent of Survey or the Boundary Officer is empowered to remit an award for the reconsideration of the arbitration committee for any of the causes set forth in this Paragraph

2 Procedure in enquiry under this Paragraph

Where an application is made to set aside an award on any of the grounds mentioned in this Paragraph, the Court is bound to allow the applicant an opportunity to produce evidence to substantiate his objections and to enquire into the allegations made by him 2 The burden of proving such allegations is on the person seeking to have the award set aside 3

A party in whose fatour an award has been passed cannot object thereto on the ground that the arbitrators exceeded their jurisdiction *

An order deciding objections to an award under this Paragraph should comply with the provisions of O 20, R 5, ante and the Court should state its finding or decision on each separate issue with reasons therefor 5

3 Refusat to reconsider award remitted

If an award has been remitted to the arbitrators for their reconsideration under Para 14 ante and the arbitrators decline to submit a fresh award, award hecomes void and the Court has no alternative but to try the case itself It is not necessary in such a c.se for the Court to find corruption or misconduct

4. Grounds for setting aside award

An award can he set aside only on one or more of the grounds mentioned in this Paragraph. Therefore a provision in the agreement of reference that any of the parties might object to the award on any account is ultra vires and contrary to the procedure prescribed by this Paragraph.

As to the several grounds on which an award may be set aside see Notes 5 to 13, infra.

5 "Corruption or misconduct"

The word "misconduct" when applied to the proceedings of arbitrators does not necessarily imply moral tauptude, it is used in the sense of breach or neglect of such duties and responsibilities as decoive on the arbitrators acting judicially and as the Courts of Justice expect from them before allowing finality to their awards. In other words it comprehends action on the part of the arbitrator which, upon the face of it, is opposed to all rational and reasonable principles that should govern the procedure of any person who is called upon to decide questions in difference referred to him by the prites.

The word "corruption necessarily implies misconduct but "misconduct" does not of necessity imply corruption. Thus an award may be set aside on the ground of misconduct which does not amount to corruption."

Where it is proved that an arbitrator has been guilty of misoonduct, it is not necessary to prove prejudice in order that the award may be set aside, but the irregularity may be cured by waiver.

6 Acts amounting to misconduct

We now proceed to discuss some instances of misconduct justifying the setting aside of an award under Clause (a) of this Paragraph —

(1) Where more than one arbitrator is appointed, the pieseuce of all of them at all meetings and, above all at the last meeting when the final act of arbitration is done, is essential to the validity of the award Therefore the absence of some of the arbitrators at some of the meetings is misconduct within the meaning of this Paragraph The reason is that in such cases the parties

intend that all the persons to whom the reference is made shall meet and discuss together all the matters referred and that the award should be the result of their united deliberations This conference and dehiberation in the presence of all the arbitra tors are the very essence of the arbitration and the sole reason why the award is made binding. The facts that the agreement of reference provided for a valid award by the majority of the arhitrators and that a majority of them were present at all the meetings will not make the award valid 2 Similarly where a reference was made to three persons and the award purported to be made hy four persons, it was set aside on the ground that the association of the fourth person might have influenced the decision of the others 3 The absence of an arhitrator at some of the meetings does not however amount to misconduct if the act done at such meetings is not of a judicial nature, but merely ministerial in its charicter

As to the vulidity of an award made by a majority of arbitrators, see Note 2 to Para 4

(2) "If irregularities in procedure can be proved which would amount to no proper bearing of the matters in dispute there would be misconduct sufficient to vitite the awaid without on the honesty or impartiality of the arbitrator."

(3) The ordinary rule is that an enquiry before the arbitrator is assimilated as near as may be to the proceedings on a trial in the Courts Therefore if the parties are not given notice of, any meeting at which they should appear and represent their case or are not given a fair and reasonable opportunity to prove their case, that would amount to misconduct on the part of the arbitrators <sup>6</sup> But the omission to give notice of a meeting to a party who had, prior to such meeting, natified to the arbitrator his withdrawal from the submission, does not in-

- (5) An arbitrator ought not to hear or receive evidence, oral or documentary, from one side in the absence of the other 12 It has, however, been held by the High Court of Madias that there is no misconduct where an opportunity was given to the other side of meeting and answering such evidence 124 Similarly if the arbitrator tikes evidence in the absence of the parties with their consent13 or where one of the parties deliberately absents himself from the bearing14 the award made thereafter is not bad for misconduct

(11) Where an award is made after a delay of five years it will amount to misconduct unless the delay is properly explained 20 The reason is that it is the duty of the arbitrator to see that the proceedings are conducted with reasonable diligence and not doinso is a failure in his ordinary duties as an arbitrator. 7 Acquiescence in acts amounting to misconduct

The principles mentioned in Note 6, ante in relation to the vinos instances of misconduct must be indestood subject to the quadification the the parties may agree that a reference may be conducted in a princular wal. It is also well settled that an objection to the niceular or improper conduct an arbitrator may be warved by the parties either expressly or by conductive principle that Courts will not permit a puty to he by or act in an indees manner so as to obtain the benefit of the award it it is in his favour all endeviour to set it aside if it is not. Thus where one of several arbitrators absent at some of their meetings and a party principates in subsequent proceedings without objecting to the irregularity or where the arbitrators eximine the plaintiff switnesses in the absence of the parties and the defendant who is a new of this makes no protest at that time or later on. The party will be deemed to have warred his right to object to the award.

In Indicus v Mitchell Lord Halsbury observed as follows We must not used upon too minute observance of the regularity of forms among persons who naturally by their education or by their opportunities cannot be supposed to he very familiar with legal procedure and may accordingly make slips in what is mere matter of form without any interference with the substance of their deci Courts will not therefore set aside un award for misconduct of the arbi trators unless there has been something radically wrong and victous in the proceedings before the arbitiators 3

II.

In arbitrator selected by the parties comes within the general obligation of being bound to give evidence when called as a witness in proceedings to enforce or set aside an award. Ho may be evinenced upon the course of procedure which he has adopted, the interril which he has utilised in arriving at his decision and as to every matter of feet with reference to the making of the award, so as to put the Court in possession of the history of the hitigation up to the time of his proceeding to make the award. But a party can go no further and cannot examine him as to why and how he arrived at a particular decision and serutions his decision on matters within his jurisdiction and on which his decision is final.

10 Fraudulent concealment of any matter which he ought to have disclosed

In cases of arbitration where a person is appointed by two parties to exercise judicial duties, there should be uberrina fides on the part of all the parties concerned in regard to his selection and appointment and every disclosure which might in the least affect the mods of those who are proposing to submit their dispute to the arbitration of any particular individual, as regards his selection and litness for the post ought to be made, so that each party may have every opportunity of considering whether the reference to arbitration to that particular individual should or should not be made <sup>12</sup> Thus, where the arbitrator is the retained pleader of one of the parties 2 or is related to him or is interested in the

11 Award made after order superseding arbitration

If the power of the arbitiatin is revoked by the Court passing an order superseding the ubitrition, "the arbitiators have no longer session of the reference, and they are function officers and cease to have any more power to make an award than the mun in the strent."

Where in award was not made in time and consequently the reference to arbitution wis cincelled, the Court has no pawer to look at the award seb sequently made and hase its judgment in it, as if it were the report of a commissioner.

12 Award made after the expiry of the period allowed by the Court

It has been already mentioned in Note 1 ants that S 531 of the old Code after setting out the grounds on which an award could be set aside an elawester (b) and (c) provided that "no award shall be valid unless made, within the time allowed by the Court" It was, therefore, held under that Code that an award made after the expiry of the period allowed was null and soid, that is to sy, there was no award on which the Court could make a deepec.

The effect of the alteration made in this Paragraph is that an award made out of time is not per see a multity, but only aside the award if the parties so desine to a made to set aside the award on that ground, and the set aside the ward on that ground, and the set aside the ward on that ground, and the set aside the ward on that ground, and the set aside the ward on that ground, and the set aside the ward on that ground, and the set aside the ward on that ground, and the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as the set as

13 Being otherwise invalid

Section 521 of the old Code did not cent un the word. "or being otherwise minished. It was held under that Code that an objection to an award could not be taken under S 521 on this ground that the award was invalid for any reason other than these mentioned in that section." The effect of the charge mades this Paragraph is that in objection to an award on the ground that its invalid for any cause whatever must be taken in the Court in which the award is field and if no objection is there taken or lift is made and disallowed, the award becomes final and cannot be challenged subsequently. An award made otherwise than in accordance with the authority conferred he the order upon the arbitrators is an award which is 'otherwise invalid' and which may accordingly be set aside by the Court under this Paragraph 3 Thus where the irbitiators treat a person who is not a party to the suit which has been referred to them as a party to it and decide disputes between parties to the suit or any of them and such person the arbitrators exceed their jurisdiction and the award is invalid within the meaning of this Paragraph . Similarly where the arbitrators on beyond the scope of the submission and decide matters outside the cope of the suit, the Court will be justified in setting aside the award as invalide It has been held in the undermentioned cases that such an award cannot be treated putly as one made on a reference through Court and partly as an award by private agreement. But where simultaneously with the order of reference, the parties agree to refer to the same arbitrators matters outside the suit and separato awards are made and it appears that the view of the arbitrators in the latter award could not have influenced their minds in deciding the former, the award is not vitiated?

There is a conflict of opinion on the question whether an award can be challenged under this Paragraph on the ground that the olds of reference is itself invalid. The High Court of Calentia has held that the words "being otherwise invalid" in clause (d) of sub-section (1) of this Paragraph refer to the invalidity of the kind mentioned in the preceding sentences of the said clauses and, that therefore, a ground of objection which challenges the validity of the order of reference is not a ground which may be put forward under this Paragraph. The High Court of Allahabad, while expressing conflicting opinions as to whether the words should be construed explaint generic with those previously stated, has held that in objection as to the valuity of the reference is not in objection within this Paragraph. But the High Court of Lahou has held that the doctime of equadem enerits cannot be invoked to restrict the full and natural meaning of the phrise for being otherwise invalid. And that an award can be challenged on the ground that the reference is anythed so not invine been agreed to by all the paties?

14 Appeal

No appeal lies from an order overruling objections to an award 1 Nor does an appeal he from an order setting aside an award under this Paragragh except in the case provided for in S 104 sub s (1) Clause (a)

2 'Pronounce judgment according to the award

Where the Court sees no ground to remit the award under Para 14 and where no application has been made to set aside the award or where such applica tion has been relused, the Court has no option but to pronounce judgment accord ing to the award 1 Where, however, any portion of the award deals with matters outside the scope of the suit, the Court should not embody such portion of the award in its decree 2

It is not necessary that the judgment should be pronounced in the presence of the parties Where, therefore, the defendant does not file any application to set aside the award, and the Court thereupen pronounces judgment in accordance with the award as it is bound to do, the decree which follows thereon is not an ex parte decree oven though the defendant is absent at the time the decree is passed 3 Where an application to set aside such a decree is refused the order is not appealable under O 43, R 1, Cl (d) 4

in accordance with the award, follows upon a judgment "so pronounced' ie, propounced after the expiry of the period of limitation for making an application under Para 15 It has accordingly been held by the High Courts of Allahabad, Calcuttas and Rangoon and by the Chief Court of the Puniab that where a decree is passed before the expiry of such period, an appeal is not barred by this Paragraph Conflicting views have been expressed by the High Court of Madras, one case holding that an uppeal does he, 11 others holding that it does not 12 and a third class of cases holding that a revision will lie in such cases, thus impliedly negativing the existence of a right of appeal 13 According to the High Court of Bombay no appeal will lie in such cases but a revision may lie 14 The Judicial Commissioners Courts of Oudh 10 and Sind 16 have also held that the High Court can interfere in revision in such a case. It is submitted that the view that an appeal lies is correct

Suppose now that the parties accept the award filed in Court and agree that a decree may be passed in terms of the award, has the Court power to pass the decree without waiting for the expiry of the period prescribed by Art 158 of the Limitation Act? The Chief Court of the Punjab17 and the Judicial Commis sioner's Court of Nagpur15 have held that the decree so passed is valid, the reason being that it is, in fact, a decree by consent of parties The High Court of Madras 19 and the Judicial Commissioner's Court of Sind20 have, on the other hand, held that such a procedure is without jurisdiction and that the Court has no power to pass a decree even if an application to set aside the award has been disposed of before that time It is submitted that the former view is correct. The object of waiting till the expiry of the limitation period is only to enable the parties to come in with their objections to the award, if any, and where such parties themselves agree not to object, there is no reason why the Court should wait till the expiry of the period before pronouncing midement

5 Finality of decrees not in accordance with the award

When an award is modified under Para 12, ante, the only award according to which judgment can be pronounced is the modified award. Hence an appeal will not lie against a decree hised on a modified award, though it may not be in accordance with the original award. The contrary view taken in the undermen tioned cases is it is submitted, not sound on principle

Where in appeal hes against a decree which is in excess of or not in accordance with the award, the appellant is not entitled to address the Court on all points which were rused before the lower Court. His appeal would be only in so far as the decree and the award differ and his attack must be confined to the legality of the decree as compared with the award 10

the High Courts of Allahabad and Calcutta and the Chief Court of Oudh open to second appeal 4. The reason given is that the provision in sub para (2) of the Paragraph applies only where a decree has been pronounced in accordance with the award by the Court making the reference. But the Chief Court of the Punjah has held that the decree of the lower appellate Court is entitled to the same finality as that of the first Court and that a second appeal will not be 5.

9 Revision

Sub pair (2) of this Paiagraph only prohibits an appeal from a decree based upon an award. But as observed by their Lordships of the Privy Council in Ghulam Khan v. Vachomed Hassan I. L. R. 29 Cal. 167, "in the case of an award revision would be more objectionable than an appeal and hence an application or revision against a decree in accordance with an award does not be much) of the ground of the erroneous decision of the lower Court in respect of any of the grounds of objections falling under Pairs 14 and 15, ante 1. But where the action of the Court with reference to the arbitration proceedings is attacked or any of the grounds mentioned in S. 115 ante, the High Court can revise a decree based upon an award. Thus where a Court passes a decree on an ward without gring notice of the filing of the award to the parties as required by Paia 10 at the

It has been already discussed in Note 6 ante, whether an appeal has against a decree hased upon an award where the reference to arbitration is itself impurped as being invalid. The High Court of Mahahad has held that such a decree is open to revision on the ground of its being without jurisdiction? But according to the High Court of Labore and the Chief Court of Oudh, no revision hes in such a ease

A judgment and decree passed in accordance with an award may constitute ves sudicata as much is a judgment and deeree which result from the decision of the Court after the matter has been fought to the end 1 A valid award operates to merge and extinguish all claims covered by the submission and is binding on the parties to the reference even though it his not been made a rule of Court under this paragraph 3

11 Enforcement of the award

The only way of enforcing an award made in a reference through Court is to have a decree passed in accordance with it under this Paragraph 1 Where a decree is passed in terms of an award, the tward can be enforced only by way of execu tion of the decree and no separate suit will be therefor 2. Nor will a suit he to en force an award which was declared void by the Court in proceedings under Para 173

12 Suit to set aside award

Where an application to set aside an award is refused and a decree is passed in accordance with it no suit will be thereafter to set aside the award 1 But a minor can sue to set aside a decree against him based on award on the ground that the reference to arbitration was made without obtaining the leave of the Court is required by O 32, R 72

13 Court acting as arbitrator

It has been already seen in Note 22 to Pair 1, ante, that a consent by the parties to abide by the decision of the Court is not such a reference to arbitration as is contemplated by this Schedule The decision of the Court, in such a case, however operates as a consent decree and is, therefore, not appealable 1 In the undermentioned cases2 it has been held that such a decision is in the nature of an arbitrator's award and bence is not appealable. It is respectfully submitted that though the actual decision in the said cases is right, the reasoning on which they proceed is not correct

Where the parties agree not to let in evidence but that the Court may make a local inspection the decision of the Court in the suit is neither a consent decree nor an award and is therefore appealable 3

14 Valuer and arbitrator

It has been already seen in Note 10 to Para 1 that a reference to arbitra tion implies the existence of some matter in difference which has actually unen at the time of the reference Thus where the intention of the parties is that the person to whom the matter is referred should hold an enquiry in the nature of a judicial enquiry, and hear the respective cases of the parties, and decide upon evi dence laid before him the case is one of arbitration 12 But where a person 13 appointed to ascertain some matter for the purpose of preventing differences from arising, not of settling them when they have arisen, the case is not one of arbitra tion 1 No judgment could, therefore, he given under this Paragraph on the basis

1 Legislative changes —

1 The words of any person named in the agreement or to be appointed by iny Court having purisdiction in the matter to which the agreement relates which occurred after the words shall be referred to arbitration in the corresponding section of the old Code have been omitted in Cl 1 of this Pala graph

2 Clause 4 of this Paragraph roplaces the following words which occurred in the old Code - If no sufficient cause be shown the Court may cause the agreement to be filed and shall make an order of reference thereon and may also nominate the arbitrator when he is not named theroin and the parties cannot agree as to the nomination

It was held under the old Code that an agreement in which the arbitrator was not named could not be filed under S 523 1 Under the present Code in view of the aforementioned changes it is not necessary that the arbitrator should be named in the agreement 3

2 Scope and applicability of the Paragraph

This and Paras 18 and 19 infra deal with the second class of cases of arbitration referred to by the Judicial Committee in Ghulam Khan v Muharitad Hassan, (I L R 29 Cal 167 P C), 117, to references to arbitration without having recourse to litigation

The provisions of this Paragraph apply only to cases where in pursuance of the agreement to refer, the arbitrators have not functioned and made their award Where the award bas actually been delivered, the proper course is to take proceedings under Para 20 to enforce the award 1 Similarly, where an application is filed under this Paragraph but before it is disposed of the arbi trators deliver their award the application is rendered infructuous, and the remedy of the parties is to apply under Para 20° A mere filing of an applies tion under this Paragraph does not oust the purisdiction of the arbitrator to gave his award 3

Arbitration in a pending suit stands on a different footing from an 3-rec ment made out of Court to refer a dispute to arbitration In a pending suit its authority of the arbitrator is derived from the order of the Court making the reference, and if this order is defective there is no proper reference and conse quently there can be no legal award On the other hand in a private reference it is the agreement entered into hetween the parties which confers jurisdiction N 'e ?

on the arbitrators to deal with the dispute. In such a case if proceedings are taken under this Paragraph and a reference secured under Cl 4 thereof, it is not this reference which constitutes the arbitrator as a private tribunal. It is merely the machinery by which the tribunal already constituted by the agreement of parties is made to function

The provisions of this Paragraph are permissive and do not oblige a party to apply under this Paragraph 5 It is open to a party to the agreement to file a suit in Court notwithstanding the agreement and the only remedy of the other party if he wishes to stand by the agreement is to apply under Para 18, infra, (for further discussion, see Para 18) The provisions of this and the following two Paragraphs do not apply to cases governed by the Indian Arbitration Act, 1899 (See S 3 of the Indian Arbitration Act, 1899 and S 89 of the Code) See also the following cases 6.

If in conciliation proceedings under Chapter 6 of the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, XVII of 1879, the parties agree to refer the matter in dispute to arbitration, the conciliator appointed under that Chapter must under S 45 of the Act, forward the agreement to the Court having sursdiction in the matter and the Court must thereupon proceed in the manner provided by this Paragraph and Para 19, infra

3 Agreement to refer matters in a pending litigation

The provisions of this Paragraph cover only cases where parties without recourse to litigation, agree to refer their differences to arbitration i If parties to a litigation who desire to refer their differences to arbitration, desire to avail themselves of the provisions of this Schedule, they can do so only under Paras 1 to 16 thereof 2 In other words, an agreement to refer made by the parties to a litigation without the intervention of the Court cannot be recognised under this Schedule,3 and cannot be filed under this Paragraph as if it was an agreement to refer without recourse to hitigation * If an award has been passed on such a reference it cannot be made the basis of a proceeding under Para 20 " As to whether such an agreement can be recognised independent of this Schodule, as an adjustment of the suit under O 23 R 3, there is a conflict of opinion for which see Note 9 to O 23, R 3, ante 52

Where however, after an agreement to refer was entered into in a pending suit, the suit itself was withdrawn, in application filed under this Paragraph subse quent to such withdrawal is not incompetent and an award mide in pursuance of the same is valid 6 So also an agreement to refer relating to matters not involved

5 Agreement must relate to matters within Court's jurisdiction

Before an application can be filed under this Paragraph it is essential that the agreement to refer should relate to matters which the Court is competent to try and has jurisdiction to pass a final decree upon 12 Thus, where an agreement relates to the partition of revenue paying land, it cannot be filed under this Para Graph as the civil Court has no jurisdiction to partition the revenue 1 Where an agreement relates to matters partly the Court it has been held that

6 Agreement relating to appointment to public office

The succession to the trusteeship of a public trust or charity is a matter iffecting the public interests and a disputo regarding it cannot be referred to arbitration 1 It has been held by the High Court of Madras that an agreement to tefer to ubitration even if relating to a public office is not necessarily unlawful or opposed to public policy, but must be scrutimised by the Court for the purpose of ascertaining whether it is in violation of the trusts of the institution or affects adversely the interests of the public "

10 Arbitrator appointed in accordance with the provisions of the agreement

A submission to arbitation must be strictly construed as it deprives the puty to the submission of the right which he has under the common law to have the dispute to which the submission relates decided by a Court of Law! The junisdiction of the Court to order a reference under this Paragraph is derived from the agreement of the pathes and the Court must refer in accordance with the terms of the agreement. If it fails to do so it acts with material irregularity in the exercise of its jurisdiction. Thus where the agreement is to refer to the arbitration of two European merchanis of Arrachi the Court has no power under this Paragraph to order a reference to an Indian merchanis of Ammitsar Where according to the terms of an agreement to refer a unprie should be appointed from out of seven persons named the Court cannot appoint as an immure i resson who is not one of the seven persons named as Similarly.

Thus, where an agreement is to refer to the arbitration of three specified persons, and one of them dies pending arbitration proceedings, the Court cannot order the agreement to be filed under this Paragraph and direct the remaining arbitrators to act or appoint a new arbitrator in his place as it will not be consistent with the provisions of the agreement to do so 7. The High Court of Allahahads has, on the other hand, held that where an arbitrator refuses to act pending arhitration proceedings, the Court can, on a subsequent application under this Paragraph appoint a new arhitrator The decision proceeds on the view that a party, acquiescing in the arbitrators commencing proceedings, should be deemed to have waived his right to object to the opposite party obtaining later on an order of reference under this Paragraph According to the High Court of Labore where an arbitrator named refuses to act. the question whether a new arbitrator can be appointed is one depending on the intention of the parties. If the dominant intention is that the matter should be referred to arbitration then the fact that the parties agreed on the personnel makes no difference, and the Court can appoint a new arbitiator If, on the other hand, the essence of the agreement is to refer the matter to a particular individual only the Court has no power to appoint a new arbitrator sa

This has not been followed in this country. Aspointed out by the Privy Council in Pestonjee v Manockjee & Co., 12 Moo Ind App 112, at p 130, no party to an agreement to refer to arbitration can, after a reference has been made, revoke the submission unless for good cause and a mere arbitrary revocation of the authority is not permitted. The following have been held to be 'sufficient cause' for revoking a submission to arbitration.

- (1) The fact that the arbitrator is colluding with the opposite party *

P. 18. [New.] Where any party to any agreement to refer to arbitration, or any person claiming under him, institutes any suit against any other party to the agreement, or any person claiming under him, in respect of any matter agreed to be

1 Scope and object of the Paragraph

This paragraph must be read with S 28 of the Contract Act, 1872, S 21 of the Specific Relief Act, 1877, and Para 22 of this Schedule The general rule as declared by S 28 of the Contract Act is that every agreement by which are party thereto is restricted absolutely from enforcing lus rights under or in recres of the contract by the usual legal proceedings in ordinary tribungle is your agreement to refer future disputes or an agreement in uniting to refer error disputes to arbitration has been declared by the said section to be an excert .-the general rule Such agreements are therefore valid and binding on to Lange They are, however, not specifically enforceable (S 21 of the Specific East in 1877) But if a party to the agreement sues in respect of the matter agrees. . . ** referred to arbitration, the Court may stay the suit under this Parerell and thus enable the defendant to apply under Para 17 to carry on the arrange of Proceedings as under the agreement Before the present Code, the engage of such an agreement could be pleaded as a bar to the suit under S 21 ciant specific

Relief Act That section, so far as it enabled such a plea to be rused as a bar las now been declared by Para 22, sufra, to be not applicable to cases governed by this Schedule 1a

The object of this Paragraph is to provide against the confumacious conduct of a plaintiff who had agreed to refer a particular matter to arbitration but wants to resile from it, but the discretion is in the Court to stay the suit or not, the paramount idea being that a tubnnal constituted by the parties should not come in conflict or usurp the function of the tribunal which the Sovereign h s provided 2

2 Where any party institutes any suit

This Paragraph is restricted to cases in which a suit is instituted after an agreement to refer to arbitration has been entered into. An agreement to refer entered into pending suit does not oust the puisdiction of the Court, nor can't afford a valid ground for staying the suit under this Paragraph 1

3 Application for stay of suit must be made at the earliest opportunity

The power vested in the Court to stay a suit under this Paragraph's discretionary and can be exercised only on an application made for that purpose at or before the settlement of issues, of the provisions of S 19 of the Indian Arbitration Act which require that the application should be made at any time after appearance and before filing a written statement or taking any other steps 17 the proceedings

4 Effect of award made subsequent to suit in pursuance of agreement to refer before

Where no application for stay is made within proper time or an application is made and dismissed, the award made subsequently and pending the suit is invalid When once the suit is filed, the jurisdiction of the arbitrators cea ? and they become functus officio 1 Tho leading case on the point is the decision in Doleman and Sons v Orsett Corporation, [(1912) 3 K B 257] which has been Moulton LJ. quoted with approval and followed by the High Courts in India in delivering the judgment in thit case observed as follows — The law will not enforce the specific performance of in agreement to refer to arbitration but if duly appended to it his the power in its discretion to refuse to a party the alternative of having the dispute settled by a Court of Law and thus to leve him in the position of having, no other remedy than to proceed by arbitration. If the Court has refused to stry an intion or if the defendant has obstained from asking it to do so the Court has seen of the dispute and it is by its decision, and by its accession ident that the rights of the parties are settled. It follows that in the latter case, the private tribunal, if it has ever come into existence is function officio unless the parties agree de note that the rights of the parties are formed by arbitration and that the action itself shall be referred. There cannot be two tribunals, each with the juri-diction to misst on deciding the rights of the parties and to competition to accept its decision.

But in order to apply the doctrine that an iward made pending suit is might the following conditions must be fulfilled -

- (1) The percon instituting the suit must be a party to the agreement to
  - (2) The party wishing to stay the suit must have the right to highly to the Court to stry it
- (3) The subject matter of the dispute must be the same before the arbitrator and the Court 2

The salidity of the agreement entered into prior to the suit is not however affected by the institution of the suit and it is only the subsequent anaid that is invalid. Hence it has been held by the High Court of Calcutta that though an award is made subsequent to suit the Court can nevertheless stay the suit in order to enable the defendant to have the invalid award set aside (under Paris 20 and 21) and thereafter re commence the arbitration proceedings. Otherwise a party to the agreement can suilify the entire arbitration proceedings by filing a suit at the last moment when the award is about to be delivered without giving the opponent any time to obtain a stay of the suit.

4a Effect of award made prior to suit

A valid award operates to merge and extinguish all claims embraced in the submission and constitutes a bar to any action on the original demand. See S. 11, Note 27.

An award given after the period fixed in the agreement is not binding on the parties unless the period has been extended by the parties. The extension may however be made or ally See also Paragraph 8 Note 3

5 Sufficient cause-Burden of proof

It is for the plaintiff to show that there is sufficient cause as to why the matter should not be referred to arbitration in accordance with the agreement. The burden is not upon the defendant to show that no such cause exists \(^1\) (as to

6 Discretion of Court to stay suit

The defendant is not entitled as of right to a stay of the suit under this Paragraph . The granting of stay is in the discretion of the Court 1 The Court will however exercise the discretion ordinarily in favour of the stay, for, as observed by Lord Schoulne in Wallesford v Watson 2 If parties choose to determine for themselves, that they will have a domestic forum instead of resorting to the ordinary Courts, then since that Act of Parliament, (that is, the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854 S 11, which corresponds to Para 18 of the Civil Procedure Code) was passed a prime facte duty is cast upon the Courts to act upon such an agreement

7 Dispute as to agreement to refer-Validity of agreement

The Court can stay a suit under this Paragraph only when there is a subsisting preement to refer to arbitration. Where the agreement has become void and inoperative as for instance, by the death of the arbitrator specified in the abreement it can afford no valid around for granting stay under this Paragraph Similarly where the preement bas been revoked for sufficient cause or is other wise invalid in law (as where it is vitiated by fraud of mistake) the Court will decline to grant stay 4

Where the parties dispute the agreement, the Court should decide as to the tinth and validity of the agreement before it proceeds to giant or refuse a stay under this Paragraph 3 Where the parties have entered into a fresh agreement which materially alters the original agreement containing the arbitration clause the existence of the original agreement cannot be urged as a ground for stay Buif the fresh a reement merely amounts to an extension of time for the performance of the original contract, it has not the effect of supersedin, the same so as to invalidate the arbitration clause " Where a contract contains several clauses of which the arbitration clause is one the Court is not a fortion; bound to stay the Thus where a seller files a suit upon certain accepted but unpaid bills and there is a clause in the indent by which the buyer is bound to accept and pix at maturity the bills drawn by the seller notwithstanding any objection that the buyer may have regarding any variations in the terms of the indent the buyer is not entitled to 1el, on a clause in the indent agreein, to refer the dispute to arbitration Such a suit is governed by S 32 of the Negotiable Instruments to and the Court should not stay the suit under this Paraciaph 5

In the undermentioned case it has been held that where a suit is fild imperching the very agreement containing the arbitration clause the Court can order a stay of the arbitration proceedings.

2 Awards made on arbitration without the intervention of a Court
A reference to arbitration out of Court originates in a submission which is an agreement between the parties to be bound by the adjudication of their differences or disputes by an arbitrator appointed with their consent so not be reference the irbitrator makes an award or an adjudication of the re pectro rights of the parties. In order to constitute an award therefore the follows s elements are essential:

1 ' ...

- (1) There must be a difference or dispute between the parties 1b
- (2) There must be a submission to arbitration and a reference thereon to an arbitrator appointed by the parties
- (3) There must be an award by the arbitrator on the points referred to him as between the purties to the submission, a talta award is a final adjudication of the dispute, between them embriced in the submission, and is conclusive upon the merits of the controversy submitted. It operates, therefore, to merge and extinguish all claims embruced in the submission and, after an award is made the submission and award furnish the only basis by which the rights of the parties can be determined and constitute a bar to any action on the original rights of the parties. It is not necessary for the talkity of the award that it should be filed or enforced in a Court of law. But fit is desired to enforce the rights created by the award through the Court, the award has to be converted into a judgment of Court on which a decree may be made 22. For this purpose a party in whose favour an award has been made has two courses open to juin.

3 Scope of the Paragraph

sunt to enforce the rights created by the award 3 (Se* Note 4, infra) The inquiry under this Paragnaph is imited to the conditions specified in Pars 41 (See Note 2 to Para 21, infra) While, in a regular sunt to enforce the award, it is some to the defendant to attack the award on all possible grounds 4

As to whether a proceeding under this Paragraph is resplained in a subsequent suit to enforce or set aside the award, see Note 27 to 8 11 ante. A refusal to file the award under this Paragraph does not amount to a dener, and therefore does not lender the award void or otherwise unenforceable, as against the parties to the award, but leaves the award to have its ordinary leaf adulty, unless the validity of the award as an award was directly and substantially in issue in such proceeding 6

This Para and Para 21 infra have no application to awards made by an arbitrator appointed under the Rules made by the Government under the Co operative Societies Act. Such awards can be enforced in the same manner as decrees of civil Courts

4 Regular suit to enforce the award

Apart from the procedure under this Paragraph, a regular suit may be brought to enforce the rights under the award 1 (See Form No 10, Appendix 4 to Sch 1) It has been held in the undermentioned case that a suit to enforce the terms of the award is in essence one for specific performance of the award But it has been held by the High Courts of Madras and Allahahad that the question whether a suit to enforce an award is a suit for specific performance of the award, would depend upon the nature and purport of the award, and the period of limitation for the suit would also depend upon the nature and purport of the award It is submitted that the latter view is correct Where the award directs the performance of a duty or condition and where the performance of such a duty or condition may be specifically enforced under the Specific Relief 36, the suit may he one for specific performance of the award. But where the award settles or declares the title of the parties and a claim is made based on the title so conferred, the suit cannot be called a suit for specific performance of the award any more than is a suit upon a sale-deed, a suit for specific performance of a contract of sale 42 On the same principle it has been held that a suit for recovery of money due under an award is a suit for money and as such

Where in award is made on a reference to irbitration during the pendency of a suit in which the same subject matter is in issue the award cannot be filed under this pungraph 1

- 6 Where any matter has been referred to arbitration -Sci Para 21 infra.
- 7 Award determining mallers not referred See Para 21 sufra.
- 8 Whether part of award may be filed See Note 7 to Para 11, infra-
- 9 Any person interested in the award

A person who is not a party to the reference to arbitiation and therefore is not bound by the award cannot enforce the sward even though he may derive an advantage from it 1 The arbitrator is not a person interested in the award within the meaning of this Para He cannot, therefore apply under this Para to file an award "

10 Jurisdiction over the subject matter of the award

Under the old Code the application had to be filed in the Court of the lowest grade having purisdiction over the matter to which the award relates It was held on an interpretation of the words in quotation, that the jurisdiction depended upon the value of the matter to which the arbitration related and not on the value of the matter awarded 2 The use of the words having jurisdiction over the subject matter of the award in the present Paragraph makes it clear that the jurisdiction now depends upon the reliefs awarded rather than on the matter originally in dispute 3 In order to decide whether the Court has inrisdiction over the subject matter of the award, it is necessary to determine whether the Court would have under Ss 16 to 20 of the Code jurisdiction to try a regular suit between the parties in which the reliefs claimed are the reliefs granted by the award sa It is, however the entire matter dealt with by the award and not morely a particular portion thereof that must be considered in determining the jurisdiction of the Court Where the award deals with matters partly within the jurisdiction of a Court and partly without it, it cannot be filed

under this Paragraph in that Court and no decree can be validly made thereon Thus an award directing the payment of a sum of money and also declarate the dissolution of a marriage cannot be filed in a Small Cause Court which has no jurisdiction to deal with the question of dissolution of marriages 6 Similarly, in Ramlal v Kısan Chandra, 63 where the properties in dispute and dealt with by the award, were all outside British India, it was held by the Privy Council that the award could not be filed in a British Indian Court

Before assuming jurisdiction under this Paragraph the Court has to be satisfied that it has jurisdiction to entertain the application and should, if necessary, take evidence regarding jurisdiction before assuming jurisdiction.

11 Small Couse Court

Where an award merely directs the payment of money a suit to recover the money is cognisable by a Court of Small Causes 1

Shall be numbered and registered as a fust "

It has been soon in Note 5 to S 2, sub s (2), ante, that the word "suit" for the purposes of the Code, means-

(1) any proceeding under the Code which is instituted by the presen tation of a plaint, and

(2) any proceeding which, according to any specific provisions of law should be regarded as a suit under the Code

An application under this Paragraph or under Para 17 must, therefore, be regarded as a suit for the purpose of the Code, masmuch as it has to be "numbered and registered as a sust" It has accordingly been held that the provisions of O 9, R 13, O 23, Rr 1 and 3 and O 35, R 5 can be applied to such applications. But though such an application is a "suit" the order thereof is not a "decree" The reason is that such a decision is appealable as an order under the provisions of S 104, ante, and is thus excluded from the definition of "decree".5

It has, however, been beld in the undermentioned cases that an application V 1/2 1

within jurisdiction is separable from the other portion without affecting the basis of the award, the case may be different? 5 (1932) 1932 Mad 462 (463) 55 Mad 689 See cases cited in Poot Notes (6) and (7)

But an application under Para 17 or under this Paragraph should be recarded as a suit only for the pur poses of the Code It is not a suit within the meaning of the Limitation Act, 1908 or of the Dekkhan Agriculturists Relief Act or of the Court Ices Act. 1670sa or for the purposes of the taxation of the pleaders fee on such applications. # 13 Notice to parties

II.

The issue of a notice to the parties under sub para (4) is imperative 1. The word parties is not contined to persons who have actually appeared before the arbitrators A B and C igreed that in case of any dispute between them the matter should be referred to the arbitration of persons chosen by each party to the dispute and that in the event of any such party refusing to nominate an arbitrator. the arbitrator nominated by the other party should nominate auother arbitrator and the two to ether should nominate an unpute Deputes having arisen A and B called upon C to nomin te an inbititor (fuled to do so and thercupon 4 and B nominated an arbitiator who chose another ubitiator and they having appointed an umpire mide an award I applied to ble the award in Court It was beld that C was a party to whom notice should go although ho did not actually appear before the arbitration 3

15 Decision of majority

Where a dispute is referred to several arbitrators and the agreement of reference does not provide that the decision of the millority shall prevail an award by the majority of the arbitrators is not valid. The more fact that an uneven number of arbitrators have been appointed does not show that the parties agreed to be bound by the award of the majority 2 The Court cannot in such cases annount an umpire 3 Even in a case where the parties agree to be bound by the award of the majority the proceedings will be vitiated upless all the arbitrators take part in the proceedings . As to the validity of a decision by the majority of the arbitrators on a reference pending suit see Note 2 to Para 4 ante

16 Parlies to reference

An award binds only the parties making the reference Where a reference is made by some only of several persons having a common interest, and they have no express authority from the others to act on their behalf also the latter are not bound by the award 1 Where one of the parties to a reference is a minor and an application is made to the Court by another party to file the award, the Court before filing the award, should decide definitely whether the reference vas for the benefit of the minor so as to be hinding on bim 2.

17 Court fee

An application to file an award under this paragraph is not chargeable with a Court fee as if it is a suit but is chargeable only as in application 1 See al o Art 18, Sch II of the Court fees Act, 1870

18 Limitation

The period of limitation for in application to file an award is six months from the date of the award 1 (Art 178, Indian Limitation Act) It has been held that the date of the award in Art 178 really means the date on which the award was published or handed over to the parties and not the date on which it was made or signed 2 The Court has no power to enlarge this period under S 5 of the Limitation Act 3 Nor can a party claim the benefit of S 6 of the Act 4

2 Scope of the enquiry under this paragraph

It has been seen in Note 4 to Para 14 auto that it is a fundamental removale of the law of arbitration that the submission furnishes the source and prescribes the limits of the authority of the arbitrator and that the award must conform to the submission in substance and in form Subject to this limitation. however the arbitrator is the sole and final judge of law and fact and the Court will not review the award upon the merits nor constitute itself as a Court of appeal to go into the merits of the matter and to see whether the conclusions arrived at are sound and reasonable 1

There is no provision of law which requires the arbitrator to adopt any special procedure in arriving at his award 2 and the proceedings are not intended to be earried on according to the rules of procedure contuned in the Code 28 Ho is not bound to make any record of the proceedings2b or to give a reasoned judicial decision. In any inquiry under this paragraph the Court has to satisfy itself only on the following points -

- (1) that there was a matter in difference between the parties existing at the time of the arbitration (see Note 3 unfra)
- (2) that there was a valid submission of the matter in difference and a reference thereon in arbitration (see Note 4)
- (3) that the subject matter of the reference was such as could be lawfully referred to arhitration and that the Cnurt has jurisdiction over

16 Parties to reference

An award binds only the parties making the relevence. Where a reference is made by some only of several persons having a common interest, and they have no express authority from the others to act on their hehalf also the latter are not bound by the award 1 Where one of the parties to a reference is a minor and an application is made to the Court by another party to file the award, the Court before filing the award should decide definitely whether the reference was for the benefit of the minor so as to he hinding on him 2

17 Court fee

An application to file an award under this paragraph is not chargeable with a Court fee as if it is a suit but is chargeable only as an application 1 See also Art 18 Sch II of the Court fees Act 1870

18 Limitation

The period of limitation for an application to file an award is six months from the date of the award 1 (Art 178 Indian Limitation Act) It has been held that the date of the award in Art 178 really means the date on which the award was published or handed over to the parties and not the date on which it was made or signed 2 The Court has no power to enlarge this period under S 5 of the Limitation Act 3 Nor can a party clum the benefit of S 6 of the Act 4

2 Scope of the enquiry under this paragraph

Ly has been seen in Note 4 to Para 14 aute that it is a fundamental remarks of the law of arbitration that the submission furnishes the source and prescribes the limits of the authority of the arbitrator and that the award must conform to the submission in substance and in form. Subject to this limitation. however the irbitrator is the solo and fin il judge of law and fact and the Court will not review the invidupon the ments nor constitute itself as a Court of appeal to go into the merits of the matter and to see whether the conclusions arrived as are sound and reasonable 1

There is no provision of law which requires the arbitrator to adopt any special tracedure in arriving at his award and the proceedings are not intended to be earried on according to the rules of procedure contained in the Code 22 He to not bound to make any record of the proceedings2b or to give a reasoned indicial decision 3 In any inquiry under this para, raph the Court has to satisfy itself only on the following points -

- (1) that there was a matter in difference between the parties existing at the time of the arbitration (see Note 3 sufra)
- (2) that there was a valid submission of the matter in difference and a reference thereon to arbitration (see Note 4)
- (3) that the subject matter of the reference was such as could be lawfully referred to arbitration and that the Court has jurisdiction over

- (4) that an award was made thereoo (see Notes 6, 7 and 8), and
- (5) that no grounds of objection such as those mentioned in Paras 14 and 15 have been proved (see Notes 9 and 10).

The Court should then proceed to give judgment according to the award,32 that is, it should state in the judgment what its constitution of the award is as to the rights and interests of the parties. and a decree dealing with the specific rights of the parties should be drawo up 5 The award should be construed rea sonably and in accordance with what may be supposed, under the circumstances of the case, to have been the intention of the arbitrator Every reasonable picsumption should be made to favour of the award being a final and certain termination of the matters in dispute 7

Where the Court is satisfied that the matter has been referred to arbitration and that an award has been made thereon

Under S 526 of the old Code, it was held by the High Court of Bombay in the cases cited below that the Court had no jurisdiction to enquire into the factum or validity of the submission and award, and if the defendant denied any reference to arbitration, the only course open to the Court was to dism , the application and refer the parties to a regular suit to enforce the award. But this view was dissented from by the same High Court in a later Full Bench cies in which it was held, following the decisions of the other High Courts' that the existence and validity of the reference and award was the foundation of jurisdic tion of the Court under that section, and that, therefore, the Court ought to decide on ovidence whether the matter was referred to arbitration and whether an award was made thereon The addition of these words gives effect to the latter viow. See the undermentioned cases *

The word "matter' in this as well as in the previous paragraph, is not wider than the expression "matter in difference used in Para 1 of this Schodule" is has been seen in Note 8 to that palagraph, the difference must be one which has actually arisen at the time of the reference though it need not have arisen at the tune of the agreement to refer 53 The Court must, therefore, before film, the award satisfy itself that there was a real dispute between the parties, and that there was an arhitration thereon.

4 Validity of reference and award

Before ordering an award to be filed, the Court should satisfy itself not only that the matter in difference was referred to arbitration, but also that the submission was tailed in law.

An award binds only the parties making the reference and persons who are properly represented in the arbitration proceedings2. Thus an award on a question of partition when all the members of the joint family are not parties to the reference is not hinding oo the non-parties' though as between the parties themselves it will be hinding . Again, the capacity to make a submission is co-extensive with the capacity to contract. A person who cannot make a contract cannot make a submission and a person whose capacity to make a contract is restricted, can only make a submission to that extent 5 Thus a minor cannot himself make a submission although a guardian may make it on his behalf for his benefit 6. An executor or administrator is competent, but only noder certain circumstances, to make a reference to arhitration 7 But though, as a geogral principle 1 person who is not properly represented in the proceedings is not bound thereby, the proceedings before arbitrators are not intended to be carried on according to the sules of procedure contained in the Civil Procedure Code If there is a hinding reference to arbitration, all that is occessary to be seen is that there is a substantial represectation of the different interests before the arbitrators. There is no rule of procedure by which, on the death of some of the parties, the arbitrators could substitute their legal representatives or appoint gualdian ad litem for such representatives if they happen to he minois 8

An agreement to refer, as has been seen to Para 17 antermust, for the purposes of that paragraph, be no urting In cross, however, of anadas without the intervention of the Court, it is not necessary for its validity that the submission should have been to writing it may be orall or cun be gathered from documents connected by oral oudcoce. But an agreement to refer in consideration in the withdrawal of an application under S 476 of the Criminal Procedure Code is not enough to vitate the award.

5 Subject matter of the award

Paragraph 20 provides that any person interested in the award (made without the intervention of the Court) may apply to any Court having jurisdiction over the subject matter of the award, that the award be filed in Court It follows that the subject matter of the award must be one over which the Court would have jurisdiction if a suit were brought in respect thereof Questions therefore which could not be made the subject of a civil suit, under S 9 of the Code such is caste ques tions could not be the subject of an award enforceable in a Court of law 1 The High Court of Bomhay has however held that the jurisdiction of the Court to file an award is conferred by Para 20 and not by S 9 of the Code and that the Court could therefore file an award under Para 20 even though the subject matter of the award is not of a civil nature (such as a decision of man pan offer ings) and therefore not cogmisable by a civil Court under S 9 ante2 It is sub mitted that this view is not correct. The object of thing an award in Court is to convert it into a decree of Court so that it could be enforced like other decrees under provisions of the Code 3 It necessirily follows that unless the Court has jurisdiction over the subject matter under S 9, any decree passed in respect of such subject matter would be meapable of execution under the Code

But the fact that a suit could be instituted in a civil Court in respect of a principlar matter, does not necessarily mean that such matter can be releved to arbitration. The difference or dispute between the parties should be such that the parties could if they were so minded settle the matter between themselve by a tailed agreement. Thus a dispute as to the office of a public charity, or the appointment of a guardian to a minor? not relating to a private right as between the parties cannot be made the subject of an award by arbitrators. On this sum principle a dispute irising from some illegal transaction or some transaction opposed to public policy cannot be made the subject of a valid award? as any gree ment which the parties themselves could make in settlement of the dispute would not be inforceable and the award of the arbitrator on such a dispute would like was be invalid and unchroreable? ### 6 Form of award

In ward on a reference through Court, should be in writing signed by the urbitations See Para 10, ante But as his been seen in Note 1 to that I true it is an award made on a reference made without the intervention of the Court need not be in writing or be signed by the arbitrators. It may be oral 1 But if the irbitrators resolve that their award is to be put in the form of a docutrent to be signed by them is a final expression of their decision it is only such accuracy that can be treated as their award?

6a Registration of award

In sward on a reference without this intervention of the Court affecting it movesble property of the value of more than Rs 100 is compulsorily registrable if it falls within the terms of S 17 of thin Relistration Act 1

7 Parl of award of can be filed

If in case (1) the matter not referred to arbitration can be senarated from the portion referred the latter can be filed the former being treated null and void 2. But if the objectionable portion is inseparable from the rest or not so clearly separable that it can be seen that the part of the award attempted to be supported is not it ill affected by the fighty portion, the whole award will be avoided of

In case (2) the award is not a complete award and is therefore invalida-Lut the parties may wave this objection and if they show by their conduct that they do not want a decision upon the points or if the arbitrators find that there In no matter in difference in respect of these points, the award may be hied to the extent it was given. In case (3) also, the award is invalid. Where the award did not state either the facts found by the arbitrators or the grounds for then decision and it was consequently impossible to bold that the award proceeded solely on those grounds which entitled the arbitrators to act under the arbitration clause, it was held that if the had was not separable from the good portion of the awaid the whole was had 10

8 Lost award

Where an award in writing is lost secondary evidence of the terms thereof cannot be adduced in a proceeding under this paragraph. The remedy of the parties is to tile a regular suit to enforce the terms of the award 1

9 Grounds of objection under Paras 14 and 15

See generally Paris 14 and 15 and the notes thereto. Where a period of time is fixed in the submission for the making of an award, the ribitrators have no purisdiction to make the award after the period and the award so made is invalid Where no such period is fixed in the submission the award should be made within a reasonable time which should be decided with reference to the facts of each case 2

10 Proved

Under S J26 of the old Code, it was provided that where no ground as wis mentioned in Ss 520 and 521 (Paras 14 and 15) was shown the Court should order the award to be filed It was held in some cases that even on a mere alligatio; by affidavit or verified statement that the award was had on the ground specified in S o20 or S o21 the Court was bound to dismiss the application and refer tho puties to a separate suit In other cases it was however held that the word

shown which occurred really meant proved and that it is not sufficient to allege cause or make out that there is room for an ument, but that the cause nus, be both alleged and proved to the satisfaction of the Court " The substitution of the word proved gives effect to the latter view

Section 104 (f) provides for an appeal against an older filing or refusing to file an award under this Paragraph This right of appeal is not taken away merely because a decree is passed in accordance with the award las See S. 104, Note 15 ante.1a

But up appeal hes from a decree passed under this sub-pringraph except in so far as the decree is in excess of, or not in accordance with the awaid 1 Thus where the decree does not correctly interpret the award? or where the decree awards something which the arbitrators having jurisdiction to award did not award, an appeal will be But the appellant is not entitled in such appeal to re-open the whole case and to address on all questions which were raised before the lower Court, his attack must be confined to the legality of the decree as compared with the award 4

The decree passed under this Paragraph is a decree "open to appeal within the meaning of O 43, R 1 (d), and, therefore, an appeal lies against an order refusing to set aside an ez parte decree passed under this Paragraph 5

17 Appeal to Privy Council

See Note 8 to S 104 aute The pravisions of sub Para (2) cannot be real so is to affect the right of the parties to go in appeal to the Privy Council under Ss 109 to 111 of the Code and do not har any such appeal I 18 Revision

The general principle in the case of awards is that it is final. An appeal a allowed from a decree passed nn an award only to a very limited extent \ res sion in such a case would be more phiectingable than an appeal 1. The High Cour should, therefore proceed very warrly in allowing revision in cases of award No revision will be where the conditions of S 115 are not satisfied 3 But where there is no real dispute which could be referred to arbitration in award filed by the arbitrators into Court amounts to an abuse of the process of the Court and therefore the order is open to revision 5 Similarly, where the Court assumes 1 purisdiction which it has not and files the sward a revision will lie . It was broadly held in the undermentioned cases relying upon the decision of the Pritty Council in Ghulam v Muhammad Hassan ea that no revision at all will be in any case in which a decree has been passed on in iward. It is submitted that this is not correct and that the decision of the Privy Council does not lay down any such broad proposition

Section 148. Bengal Tenancy Act (VIII of 1885), provides that this Schedule shall not apply to any suit for recovery of neit Similarly, S 199, Cl. (a) of the Madras Estates Land Act (I of 1908), enacts that this Schedule shall not apply to any suit, appeal or other proceeding under that Act

Under S 9, sub-S (3) of the Central Provinces Tenancy Act (1 of 1920), the Collector executing a decree for rent may, notwithstanding anything contained in this Schedule, allow the tenant time, not exceeding in the aggregate two months, to satisfy the decree.

Section 22.A, sub.S (2) of the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act (XVII of 1879), provides that a re sale under that section shall be deemed to be a sale under the provisions of Para 10 of this Schedule.

The provisions of S 11, Madris Court of wards Act, do not affect the da es of the executing Court or the functions of the Collector under this Rule 1

la Powers of the Court and of the Collector

As has been seen in Note 2 to S 70, ande, where a decree is transferred > the Collector for execution, the Collector has the powers of execution only a i not of deciding other matters and even the powers of execution are him of by this Rule to the three courses specified in this Rule 1 Thus he has no power to inquire into the objections to attachment or sale to entertain applications ! ! raterble distribution to decide whether the decree was satisfied or to decade whether there has been a comprom se 5 Nor can be deal with property a covered by the order of sales or set aside the acts of the owner of the piece before the transfer was made?

Within the limits of the Rule however the Collector has absolute jure diction to find out the hest method of execution allowed to him by law " Where the execution of a decree obtained against a Hindu father and sought to be executed against the joint fimily property is transferred to the Collector for execution, he becomes seized of the entire interest including the sons intere in the property, and can sell it in such execution? He can dismiss an execut of application for default and can likewise restore it in proper cases 10 Sim larly where an order is passed under a mistake be can set it aside on discovery of the mistake 11

In all matters arising in execution but not covered by the provis 02 of this schedulo, the civil Court continues to have jurisdiction Court has power to hear objections to the sale held by the Collector's or to entertum a suit to set aside the order of the Collector setting aside a sale or to inquire into the question whether the decree is satisfied 134 Where the Collec cr fails to effect the sale of property ordered to he sold by the decree it is open to him to return the papers to the Court But the Court has the power to end the papers back if the reason which prevented the sale was not such as to ejerate as a complete impediment to the execution of the decree no fresh apples on for that purpose is necessary 14 It has been held in the undermentioned c. 3 that after the transfer of the decree to the Collector for execution the cul-Court cannot entertain an application to add legal representatives of a decea cl party 15

In Allahabad the Collector has been empowered to set aside sales on prounds similar to those provided for by 0 21 Rr 69 and 90<sup>1</sup>. It has also been held that the Collector has an inherent power to set aside a sale held by him the is satisfied that it is vituated by the fraud of the decree helder.

4 Competency of Court to call back records sent to the Collector

The Court that has made a decree or judged order which has been trans mitted to the Collector for execution is not deprived of its judged power with respect to it. It has power where necessary, to recall its own records transmitted to the Collector. But such judged power ought not to be exercised unless the Court is set in motion by one of the pirities to the proceedings in execution.

Sunovsis Scope of the paragraph \ota \o 1

! Scope of the Paragraph

Where a decree is transierred to the Collector for execution the latter Las absolute jurisdiction to decide and find out the best method of execution allosed to him by law 1 The civil Court has no power to pass orders in such matters Thus where certain properties were sold by the Collector but the whole of the sale amount was not deposited by the auction purchaser it is entirely in the discretion of the Collector to decide whether he would re sell the property or not in order to realiso the balance of the purchase money 2 But as has been seen in Note 1 to Para 1 above the Collector, has no purisdiction to decide whether the decice is entisfied 3

Where in exercise of his powers the Collector has granted lease to the decree holder in satisfaction of his decree he cannot subsequently resile from it nor can the Court interfero in the matter as, for example authorising the "ran of a frosh leaso 42 Where a decree was transferred to the Collector for miling suggestions for the satisfiction of the decree and the Collector suggested that half the attached land should be farmed out to the deerco holder for certain period in satisfaction of the decree but the latter was not prepared to take such lease and the oxecuting Court thereupon merely filed the proceedings at was held that the procedure was wrong and the proceedings could be filed only if all the lanfal means for satisfying the decree had been tried and found to be impracticable

An order of a Collector under this Rule disallowing the application of a decree holder that the amount of the decree might be satisfied by a ten lorary alienation instead of by a sale is not appealable 6

Recovery of ba lance (if any) after letting or manage ment

P. 8. [S 324] Where, on the exputation of the letting or management under paragraph 7, the amount to be recovered has not been realized, the Collector shall notity the fact in writing to the judgment debtor or his representative in interest, statin-

I Scope of the Paragraph

2 Maintenance of judgment debtor's family

The provision for the maintenance of the judgment debtors family is a matter for the determination by the Court and not by the Collector 1

3 Charges The Collector is entitled to recover as expenses of sale fees on the scale prescribed for sales under the Land Revenue Code Poundage fee may also be allowed in addition to such expenses 1

4 Claims for rateable distribution-Sub Para 3 (c) (iii)

The omission, by the person claiming nateable distribution, to invite the attention of the Collector to his own right of rateable distribution does not deprive him of the right to claim such distribution in a regular suit the fact that the decree which is noted to be satisfied will have to be re opened does not affect the question 1

3 Permission of the Collector

So long as the properties of the judgment deliter are in the management of the Collector his unitem permission is absolutely necessary to validate a montgage or oner aftenation executed by the judgment debtor. The permission need not knower take any special form. Not is thecessary that onery detail of the transaction should be sanctioned by the Collector nor should these be a separate permission in respect of each deed when it is clear that the whole transaction had his termission?

The surplus sale proceeds of c satisfaction of a mortgage decree may be attached in execution as it is not a retrehment of any immovable property. But no Receiver can be appointed to take an account of the annual income of the property within the control of the Collector. The Allahabad High Court has held that the prohibition does a apply to a mortgage decree in which the Court has ordered the sale of specific property.

5 Termination of the Collector's powers

The powers of the Collector under the schedule terminate as soon as the decree is certified as satisfied. Thus where a deposit is made of the amount which would fully satisfy the decree? For where the Collector leases the property to the decree holder for a certain number of years in full satisfaction of the decree and the decree is certified as satisfied? The Collector's powers under this schedule cease and an alienation made by the judgment debtor thereafter is not void. But the mere fact that the property is sold and fetches more than the decretal amount does not put an end to the management of the Collector. His powers continue to exist till the confirmation of the sale. The presumption is that such powers continue until they are proved to have ceased. Where a civil Court draws proved to the properties attached by it and sends the same to the Collector but the latter returns it to the civil Court for some corrections to be made therein the proceedings before the Collector must be deemed to be pending even during the period during, which the Form C. was pending in the civil Coars for correction?

6 Limitation

This puragraph expressly excludes from calculation the period during such period the decree is before the Collector for execution. The teason is that during such period the decree holders have no remedy by execution against ite property of the judgment debtor in the management of the Collector. But the exclusion is permissible, only in cases where a provision has been made under Para 7 for the satisfaction of the decree and where the decree holder has in consequence been deprived of his remedy. Consequently if no such provision is made the period cannot be excluded.

The words period of limitation in this Paragraph apply to thore trictions placed upon the right of the decree holder both by the Limitation let 1908 and by S 48 of the Code* Where at a sale held by the Collector builders appear and the Collector sends the papers back to the civil Court but the civil Court returns the papers gain to the Collector the period from the

2 Superintendence - The term Superintendence has a legal force and signification which are perfectly well known to the Legislature! The object of superintendence is to keep all inferior Courts and jurisdictions within the bounds of their authority to see that they do what their duty requires them to do and that they do it in a legal manner la In England it is the peculiar business of the Court of the King's Bench to superintend all inferior tribunals and therein to enforce the duo exercise of those judicial and ministerial powers with which the Crown or Legislature has invested them and this not only by restraining their excesses but also by quickening their negligence and obviating their denial of justice 2

This wide power has been given to the High Courts in Indit in a limited and modified form by S. 115 of the Civil Procedure Code, by S 435 of the Grimmal Procedure Code, by S 107 of the Government of India Act, 1915, by Cl 13 of the Letters Patent (Madras, Bombay and Calcutt) and by other enactments These however, do not exhanst the powers of superintendence of the Chartered High Courts in India When the Supreme Courts were established in India they were invested with the same powers of superintendence as were exercised by the Court of the Queen's Bench in England 3 Under S 9 of the High Courts Act, 1861 (known as the Charter 4ct) which abolished the Supreme Courts and empowered the establishment of the High Courts, it was provided that the High Court to be established 'shall have and exercit all jurisdiction and every power and authority whatsoever, in any manner vested in any of th Courts in the same Presidency, abolished under this Act "33 Finally S 106 of the Govern ment of India Act 1915 (which has repealed the High Courts Act, 1861) provides that the High Courts have, 'subject to the provisions of any such Letters Patent, all such jurisdiction powers and authority as are vested in those Courl's respectively at the commencement of the It is thus clear that in addition to the powers given by this section and by other statutes the Chartered High Courts have inherited from the Supreme Courts the wide powers of superintendence exercised by the Court of the Ling & Bench in England 4 Thus a Charlerel High Court can issue a writ of certiorars to persons or bodies acting judicially but which are not Courts subject to the appellate jurisduction of the High Court, and which cannot be dealt with under S 107 of this Act 42 (For a fuller discussion of this, see Note 17, infra)

The powers of superintendence under this section are not merely administrative bit and are nucle under that the powers vested in the High Courts under S 115. The latter applies only where a case his been deceded by any Court subordinate to its High Court in which no appeal hes thereto and the High Court can interfere only in the three cases specified therein. There are no such limitations upon the power of the High Court under this section which can therefore be exercised even in cases not covered by S 115. It may be exercised in administrative as well as judicial matters, and in Civil as well as Chiminal proceedings.

The exercise of the power is in the discretion of the Court to which the application is und the power being one in the nature of extraordinary pursadection should be extraordinary pursadection should be extraordinary pursadection about a sparingly and with caution and on sound judicial principles in The principles grading the exercise of such discretion have been thus stated by West J in Stunnal agr view Anahunal's stollows --

(1) The Court having called up the record or proceedings of a subordinate Court will itself investigate the facts on which a jurisdiction has been samed or declined, on which it depends whether the subordinate Court could or could not legally deal with the matter in question, either at all, or on the proof to which it has referred the case, or according to which its mode of sagar or of action may or may not, have been in contradiction, rather than observed.

to the rules of procedure, or the principles implied in them to such a material extent as to defeat the purpose of the law

- (2) If the Court finds that the external conditions of purisdiction of investigation and of command have been satisfied by the inferior Court it will not substitute its own appreciation of evidence or its own judgment thereon 9 (a) Where an appeal is provided the Court will not interfere by any peremptory order
- with the ordinary course of adjudication save in cases wherein a defect of the law and a grave wrong are manufest and are irremediable by the regular procedure
- (4) Where a de rec or order of a subordinate Court is declared by the law to be for it own purposes final or conclusive though in its nature provisional as subject to displacement by the decree in another more formal suit the Court will have regard to the intention of the legislature that promptness and certainty should in such cases be in some measure accepted instead of judicial perfection. It will rectify the proceedings of the inferior Court where the extrinsic conditions of its legal activity have plantly been infringed but where the alleged or apparent error consists in a misappreciation of evidence or misconstruction of the law intrinsic to the enquiry and decision it will respect the intended finality and will intervene peremptorily only when it is manifest that by the ordinary and prescribed method an adequate semedy o the intended remedy cannot be had
- (a) The Court will am all cases regard ats exercise of the extraordinary jurisdiction as discretional and subject to considerations of the importance of the particular case or of the principle involved in it of delay on the part of an applicant and of his merits with respect to the case in which the interference is sought
- (6) The Court will sedulously abstain from making any order of raius ug to make it on grounds the appreciation of which is exclusively assigned by law to some other authority provided the legal competence be exercised in good faith on matters that may reasonably be understood as with n its lawful range

The following are some of the clas es of cases in which in accordance with the principles et forth above the High Court will interfere under this Section -

- (1) Where the de 15 on of the lower Court is without jurisdiction or in excess of its turi diction 10

- 3 Over all Courts —To attract the operation of this section it must first of all be stablished that the decision sought to be assimiled is that of a Court subject to the appellate jurisdiction of the High Court. This section does not entitle the High Court to restrify executive injustice. Thus an order passed by a Magistrite in his executive cipicity under $2.50 of the Police Act or when dealing with the Press Act 1931 caunot be revised under this Section.
- 4 Election Courts A Subordinate Judge schmang to try an election pet tion under the Madrax District Municipalities 4ct most acting as a Gave that as a personal designate and the High Court cannot set aside such an order though sliegt! under this section. Similarly the High Court has no pursistion to review on order passed by a Presidency Magriaton in an inquiry held under the rules frunced under the Madras City. Municipal Act. III of 1904 as to the competency or otherwise of a canditate for Mannipal election. A Municipal Commissioner sitting as an election Court under the U.P. Municipal city of 1916 is not also a Court captect to the appellate principation of the High Court within the meaning of this section.

It has further held that the Chief Judge of the Rangoon Small Cruss Court when excessing his powers in reference under S 18 of the Rangoon Rent Act does not act as a Court but only as a persona de signate and is therefore not subject to the appellate or revisional jur sciiction of the High Court under this Section 3
- 6 Land acquisition proceedings A collector refusing to refer a matter to the Court under S is of the Land acquisition Act to runking an award under S is I of that Act 3 does not act as a Court and is not subject to the appellate juried ction of the High Court. The High Court has therefore no power of superintendence in such cases
- It has been held by the High Cont of Calcutta in the underment ones case! that is he Calcutta Improvement Trust Tribunal acting under S 37 of the Lend Acquisition Act is a Court subject to the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court under S 115 of the Code of Cril Procedure as also under the Section The High Court of Bombay<sup>1</sup> has held that the District Court acting under S 135 of the Bombay City Municipalties Act 1925 and excressing its provers in Land Acquisition proceedings is subject to the appellate and superintending jurisdiction of the High Court.
- 7 Subject to its appellate jurisdiction—In order that the present section may apply its estential that the decay on sought to be revised should be that of a Court subject to the appellate jurisdiction of the High Court? The two things necessary to constitute appellate jurisdiction are the extience of the relat on of superor and inference Court and the power on the part of the former to review dees one of the latter? Where protracted examinations of witnesses were held which were quite irrelevant to the suit it was observed by their Lordships of the Pray Conneil that it amounted to au abuse which erroneously increased the cost of intestion without any corresponding benefit to the parties and that it was within the power of the High Court to direct an inquiry with a view to disciplinary action being titlen.

11 Criminal proceedings — As his been seen in Note 2, onte the power of superint tendence under this Section can be exercised in Guil as well as Ginmail proceedings. Thus the High Court can direct a Se, ions Judge to re hear in appeal after taking additional evidence, on the ground that there is a failure of duty.

The High Court has exercised its powers of superintendence in the following cases -

The High Court can exercise its powers of transfer under this section seen where as appliention has been made to the District Judge under S 21 of the Code of Cuil Pro clan act he has refused it 3

High Court of Madrie on the other hand, held that the High Court had power to punish such a contempt under its common law jurisdiction though not under S 15 of the Charter Act In Emperce v Balkrishna (1322 Bom 52), the High Court of Boinbay held that where a certain publication in connection with the proceedings of a subordinate Court had the effect of impediog the administration of justice it amounted to a contempt of the High Court and that it could punish such contempt under its superintending powers under this section. The High Court of Allahabad has also held that it has, as a Court of Record, jurisdiction to punish acts of contempt committed against Courts subordinate to itself 25 The conflict has now been set at reat by the aforementioned Act \II of 1926 which empowers the High Court specifically to punish a contempt of the subordinate Court where such contempt does not amount to an offence | unishable under the Indian Penal Code 3 The Let besides defining and fixing a limit as to the punishment to be impose I in such ex-es, also empowers the Chief Courts (which do not po te sany common law powers of the Court of the King a Bench in England as the High Courts do) to punish a contempt of its authority The let does not, however, apply to the Judicial Commi stoner's Court of Sagpur and the latter eaunot therefore punish a contempt of its subordinate Courte & See also the cases cited below $

any act or writing tending to undermine the authority of Courts of justice or to influence the result of pending litigation is a serious contempt of Court 6 It is however not necessary that the contempt must be in respect of a case that is ponding or which has been heard?

17 Power to usine writ of certiogram -" The writ of certiorars is the process by which the King & Bench Division in the exercise of its superintending power over inferior prindictions requires the Judge or such officers of such jurisdictions to certify or send proceedings before them into the king's beach Division whether for the purpose of examining into the legality of such proceedings or for giving fuller or more satisfactory effect to them than could be done by the Court below 1 The jurisdiction of the High Courts in India to issue such write, as already noticed in Note 2, ante, is derived from the Supreme Courts which had and exercised the jurisdiction and powers of the Court of the king a Bench in England Being a power derived from the English common law, the High Courts in India should be guided by the principles laid down by the English authorities as regards the scope and limitatious of their jurisdiction to issue such write? Such jurisdiction is original jurisdiction, but extends over all inferior tribunels amouable to its authority 3 It, however, applies to the judicial acts and not to the ministerial acts of such tribunals 4 The term "judicial" does not mean only acts of Judges or legal tribunals ' ' line questions affecting the right excess of their legal authos Bench division exercised in these write's But the High Court has no power to issue the writ against the Governor acting with the minister of public health, for the latter can claim exemption from the jurisdiction of the High Court for any act counselled or ordered by them in their public capacity

under S 110 of this let 5 The issue of the writ of certiorars is in the exercise of the discretion of the High Court and the High Court will decline to exercise it in favour of an applicant who " armed with a point either of law or of fact which would oust the jurisdiction of the lower Court has elected to argue a case on its ments before that Court ?

I licravith transmit to you the Lelters Patent or Charter! under the Royal Sigu Vianual for the High Court of Judiciture to be established in Length in recordance with the Injair in of the Act 72 and 2. Victoric Chapter 104 for establishing High Court of Judicature is India and request that you will take immediate measure for instituting the Court for Injair of the Injair of the Charter Those appointed under the Set dection of the Act are designed in the second clause of the Charter Those appointed by the Crox u will be severally informable me of their are positioned.

- 2. This Charter will accomplish the great object which has so long been contain lated of substituting for the Supremo and Sudder Courts stollabled by the Act of High Court of Judit attree possessing the combined powers and authorities of the abolished Courts and exerc in jurisdiction both over the I roriness under the Sudder Court and over the I residency Town which forms the local jurisdiction of the Supremo Court
- 3 Leforo I review the provisions in detail it is necessary that I should direct your attent in to the general score and main provisions of the Act in question
- It abolishes in the first stace (as soon as the Charter shall issue) the Supreme Court and the Court of Sudder Dewan, Advalut It vosts to the High Court (by the last | toyl on of section 9 the lowers and authorities of those Courts respectively except so far as the Cown may be such Charter otherwise direct And (by the first part of the same section) it inve to the High Court with such Civil Criminal Admiralty Vice Admiralty, Testamentary lutestate and Matrimonial Jurisdiction and all such lowers and authority in relation to the admini tration of justice in the Presidency as the came Charter may confer With sespect. therefore to the fusion of the Supreme and Sudder Courts at appears obvious that the act itself | talks and that to assume and effect the same purpose by affirmative declaration in the Charter would be superfluous. It has been consequently deemed unnecessary that the Charter should exhibit on the lace of it an explicit statement of the powers and jurisdiction to he pos es el by the new Court in consequence of the fusion as would have been the proper cour e if these powers and jurisdiction had been entirely new Recourse has been had in some places in hen of such explicit statement to reference to statutory provisions and in others to the Charter of the Supreme Court when the object of elearness appeared to require it wherever the Charter does not otherwise specify the High Court will use the powers and administer the juiss judence appertaining to those Courts respectively to whose authority it now succeeds
- 5 But the Charter's sufended positively to declare all such Civil, Criminal and other pursals tions above specified as the Crown thinks projer by this Charter to confer out supple mentary or additional to its many purpose namely, the fusion of the aforesaid Courts
- 6 Moreover the words giving authority to confer on the Court such prisadiction and such powers and authorities for the administration of justice as the Crown may direct appear

very large and such as, in point of fict invest the Crown with extensive legislative powers, so far as "the administration of justice," within the meaning of the sections, may require it has been, however, thought best to use this power very spaningly and simply as ancillar; to the real purpose of the Act, namely, the establishment of new Courts

- 7 Another reason for the form which the Iresent Letters Prient asymme is to be found in the provisions of S 17 of the Act of last Sessions. By that section power is given to the Crown to recall the Letters Prient establishing the Court at any time within three years after its establishment, and to grant other Letters Patent in their stend. This provision was marketed in the Act mainly with the view of enabling Her Magety & Government to avail themselves of the advice and assistance of the Judges of the Court in framing the more perfect. Charter by which the jurisdation and authority of the Court is to be paramently fixed. On this point, I request you will put yourselves in communication with the Judges of the Court, and, at any time previous to the expraision of two years from the date of establishment of the Court, firtuish me with any suggestions they make or any amendments they may propose in the Letters Patent now transmitted, and I shall be glad if is propouse alterations the Judges will put their recommendations as nearly is possible in the form in which they wish them to appear in the future Letters Patent.
- 8 I proceed to notice, in order, such of the provisions of the Charler is appear to me to call for special romark
  - 9 By clause 6, power is given to the Chief Justice to appoint the offices of the Court and to fix their salaries subject however, in both cases to the Clause 6 approval and confirmation of the Governor General in Connui
    This provision does not refer to the setting of tables of fices where fees are allowed, which under S 15 of the Act, is required to be done by the Court

10 The Supreme Courte recruses an authority entirely independent of the Covernment in regard to its ministerial officers. The Government, however, has always considered it silt at liberty to recover representations from any of the officers of the Sudder or Subordanste Courts who felts themselves aggreered by the orders of the Judicial Authorities, and to expless its opinion on the propriety or otherwise of the proceedings of the Courts in such cases. It will be expedient for you to take the question into your consideration, and, after communication with the Court, to adopt some rule in regard to it which of course must be uniformly applicable to all the officers of the Court.

Any person may apply to be admitted either as an Advocate, or valeed or Attorney to de also Valeels of the High Court, should the Dadge consider such a court eto be 12 The provisions in the Act. S. 2 Cl. 4, which declares that Pleader of the Sudder Court, "who shall have been admitted as Pleaders of the High Court," shall be eligible under certain conditions, to the Bench of the Court, mplies that a discretionary power may be estrated as to the admission of the present Pleaders of the Sudder Court to the Bar of the High Court. This enactment will account to post or the omission from the Charter of any provision appointing all the present practitioners of the Supreme and Sudder Courts to the High Lourt Councild, however, that unless in any special cases, there are strong reasons to the contray, the Court will admit the whole of the practitioners in the abolished Courts at the date of their abolition, to be the first theoretics, and Attorneys of the High Court.

13 With reference to the concluding sentence of Clanco 10 it is to be observed that the Letters I stent contain no provi ion reserving to the Attorneys of 6 lause 10 the present Supreme Court the right of pleading after the issue of this Charter in the Insolvent Court as newly regulated by

It has therefore been sought to invest the High Court in the exercise of its original civil jurisdiction with as ample powers in receiving and determining cases of every description and in applying a ramedy to every wrong as are exercised by the Courts not established by Royal Charter and thus to place the Courts of first instance in the fires dency Towns and in the interior of the country in this respect as nearly as may be on the same footing

20 As already observed the effect of Clause 12 will be to confine the ordinary original civil jurnsdiction of the High Court within narrower limits than Clause 13 the Civil jurnsdiction exercised by the Supreme Court By Clause 13, however, the High Court is empowered to call for and to try as a

Court of first instance any ant which the law requires to be instituted before some other tribunal. By the exercise of the power thus conferred on it the ligh Court will be enabled to obvate all reasonable grounds of complaint, when it shall deem that any hardship or injective is likely to result from the compelory institution in a Zillah Court of a sait which but for the clumps in the system might have been instituted in the Supreme Court

- 21 The introduction of the words whether within or without the Bengal Division of the Presidency of Fort William in this and in several other clauses, may appear to require explanation The Court about to be established is called in S 2 of the Act 24 and 25 Victoria C 101 a Court for the Bengal Division of the Presidency of Fort William That title is of course preserved in the Charter By S 8 the Supreme and Sudder Courts are alolished and by S 9 all their jurisdiction power, and authority except when otherwise provided are vested in the High Court But the Supreme Court has various original jurisdictions extending over the whole of the Presidency of Fort William, and also over some of the Non Regulation Pro vinces under the Government of India and the Sudder Court has various appellate juris dictions extending over the Bengal Division of the Presidency and also over the Province of Assam and others which are not properly parts of the Presidency. The result is that the High Court for the Leugal Division succeeding to the powers of both the Supreme and the Sudder Courts has to several respects purisdictions in territories not within the Bengal As this is the result of the Act it might not have been necessary to notice it in the But for the sake of clearness and in order to show distinctly that the Charter is meant to apply to these extra local purisdictions as well as to the strictly local purisdiction within the Bengal Division it has been deemed advisable to introduce these words

Clauses 33 and 34 32 The clauses respecting testamentary and intestato juris diction do not call for any remark

33 Her Wriesty's Government are deshous of placing the Christian subjects of the Cronn within the Presidency in the same position under the High Comrt us to matters matrimounal" in general as they new are under the Supreme Court, and this they believe to be effected by Cl. 35 of the Chriter But they consider it expedient that the High Court should posses it and addition the power of decreening shore which this Supreme Court does not posses, in other words that the High Court should have the same purisdiction as the Court for Divorce and Untimourn't Guess in England, exhibited in writee of 20 and 21 Vic. C 55, and in regard to which further provisions were made by 22 and 37 Vic., C 61, and 23 and in regard to which further provisions were made by 22 and 37 Vic., C 61, and 23 and 21 Vic. C 141. The 4ct of 1 arhament for estiblishing the High Court however does not purport to give to the Crown the power of importing into the Chairer all the provisions of the Divorce Court tet and some of them the Crown clearly could not so import such for instance as those which presented the period for mirrings or those which except from punishment clergymen reliving to re marry adulterers. Mr these are, in truth, matters for Indian Englathon and I request that you will mannedrively tale the subject unto your counteration and introduce into your Council a Bill for conferring upon the High Court the jurisdiction and introduce into your Council a Bill for conferring upon the High Court when the provided in the provisions of which should be to give an appeal to the Privy Connell in those cases in which the Divorce Court let gives an appeal to the House of Lords.

- 34 The object of the provise it the end of Cl 25 is to obviste any doubt thit may possibly type as to whether, by resting the High Court with the power of the Court for Divorce and Vitrimouni Cruses in England it was intended to take away from the Courts within the divisione of the Presidency not established by Popal Charter unj purudiction which they might have in matters Vituinousia as for instance in a suit for almony between Armonians or Avitive Christians With any such jurisdiction its su on intended to interfect
- 35 Clause 36 refers to the powers of augle Judges and Davision Courts a jointed or Constituted under the provisions of the 18th section of the 4ct Us S ts of the vet the jower of determining from time to time what Judges or each case shall sit alone and what Judges shall constitute Davision Courts as placed in the brudes of the Chief Justice. It will be observed that the law does not require that a Judge selected from the Darishall necessarily form a part of every Davision Court, and it will be for the Chief Justice to consider whether in cuse exclusively between Astives, it will not be desirable to follow, as far as possible, the courts which has already been resolved upon in regard to the cases under appeal to the Sudder Court as the time of its abolition, and to constitute the Davision Court of Judges trained in the courts whose knowledge of the Artic language will obvite the capones and delay of time shalling the
- proceedings

  36 Clause 37 is a very important one and these is little doubt, will prove a very substant it has therefore, been inserted although the change introduced is somewhat greater and more substantial than is generally aimed at in this Chaiter I textends to the High Court the Code of Ural Procedure cancel by the Legislature of india for the Court not

since the date of its establishment

- 37 In regard to the rules respecting appeals to the Pray Council the object has been to avoid unnecessity innovation where so much of change, with its necessary inconscience is manoidable. The caucing rules which regulate these appeals are, therefore left in force with one or two additions only, which represence in the Count of the Judicial Committee has found advisable. For instance Cl 40 is introduced, as it had been commonly introduced, of late years in the appeal sules of other dependencies of Great Britain in order to income all doubts as to the power of the High Court to allow an appeal to the Council from interio, utory sudements.
- 38 It will, however be obvious to you that the Rules, as now hamed, will be liable to the retroach of containon and perhaps of uncertainty. They will be compounded of those contained in the Charter and those already in force which will necessitate reference to several documents. You will agree with me that a simple and intelliguale. Code of Rules, to regulate affects to the Privy Council from the new High Courts or rather from the High Courts in general which have become from that the later to add the just in 1-3 ould wish therefore that one of the first objects of the Judges, is not in the mount of later of throwing them is their new position must allow it might be to a spine ungestions for such a color of Rule which sught then be reduced into a complete state is the authority of the Privy Council at Home.

as subject to the provisions of the Indian Bar Councils Act XXXV III of 1925 to the extent to which such provisions have come into force with reference to any High Court See S 19 (2) of the Act Thus it has been held that Rr 123 and 129 of the Insolvency Rules of the Madras High Court made under the Letters Patent which precluded advocates from acting as distinguished from pleading on the Insolvency side of the High Court are no longer in force as they are repuguant to the provisions of the Bar Conneils Act! Sin larly a complaint of misconduct against an advocate must first be referred to the Bar Counc ! for inquiry?

- 2 Authority of advocates vakils and attorneys —The authorities of advocates vakils and attorneys to practise in the High Court is subjet to the rules and directions made by the High Court under Cl 9 in so far as such rate, and directions are not repugnant to the provisions of the Bar Councils Act of 19261 The following cases2 are illustrative of the rules which the High Court is empowered to make under Ol 9
- Disciplinary jurisdiction of High Court over advacetes attorneys and vakils -The High Court has power under Cl 10 to remove or suspend from practice on reasonable cause any advocate vakil or attorney practis ng before it. Under the provisions of the Bar Councils Act of 1926 a compla at of misconduct against au advocate must first be referred to the Bar Council for inquiry 1 It is not ne essary und r Cl 10 that cases of professional misconduct must be dealt with only by the full Court cons sting of all the Judges of the High Court for the time Leing and it is competent to a Ben h of Three Judges to dispose of such cases 3 In proceedings under Cl 10 the High Court exercises a special jurisdiction and that inherent power to apply such rules of procedure as may ensure a fair trial 3. The proceedings are not of a criminal nature and the rules of pro adure apply able to a criminal trial such as the filing of a written statement by the accused are not applicable to them . Nor are such pro ceedings in the nature of civil suits and the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code do not apply to them 5

Though it is not incompetent for the High Court to deal under Cl 10 with charges of a criminal nature against a practitioner unless and until they have been investigated by a criminal Court it is eminently fitting that in such cases the criminal prosecution should precede any disciplinary a tion under 61 106

An order of disbarment is not necessarily final or conclusive for all time and it is open to the Court to readmit a practitioner after a lapse of time if it is satisfied that he has in the interval conducted himself honourably and that the sentence of exclusion has had the salutary effect of awakening in him a higher sense of honoai and duty? Iosolvency Court before Bar Counc ! Clauses 9 and 10- Note 1

4 'Reasonable Cause' meaning of -What is 'reasonable cause' for the removal crisspecision of a legal practitioner depends in the firsts of each case! It is not restricted to misconduct to the strict coorse of a practitioner soluties or to cases of moral turpitude but embraces all causes which may afford revenable ground for this removal or suspecision? The restrictive provisions of this Clause do not control Cl 18 below 2 Nor do they apply to a defendant where therefore, in a suit on a mortgage, a subsequent mortgage of immovable property part of which is outside jurisdiction is impleaded as a defendant and he claims to have such property brought in sale the Court held that he could do so on the ground that the restrictions in Clause 12 apply only to a plaintiff 3

2 Ordinary jurisdiction - The expression fordinary jurisdiction embraces all such as is exercised in the ordinary course of law and without any special step being necessary to assume it, and it is opposed to extraordinary jurisdiction, which the Court may assume at its discretion upon special occasions and by special orders 1 Ajudgment entered up by the High Court under S 86 of the old Indian Insolvency Act (11 & 12 Vict , O 21) is "not by way of special or discretionary action, but in the ordinary course of the duty cast upon it by law, according to which every other case of the same hind would be dealt with 3 Matters falling under Clauses 12, 17 and 18 would thus appear to be within the ordinary jurisdiction of the High Court falling under this group the question therefore mainly turns on the view of the Court in each case as to whether title or 10 session is directly and a abstantially affected by the suit)

These cases may be divided into the following classes -

- (a) Suit fr a share in the sale proceeds of immorable property-In Goculdas v Clarantitie errel to above the plaintiffs claimed their share of the sale proceeds of a point family house wranefully sold by the defendants. The defence was sales alta that the plaintiffs had no title to the house Page J held that no issue are e in the case that could affect the title to the premises sold as the title of the our baser was not challenged nor the sale sought to be set aside both the plaintiffs and defendants approbated the sale and only claimed their share in the proceeds. The dispute did not therefore affect the title to the house but the real one tion was whether the plantiffs were members of a Joint Hindu Lamily at material times
  - (b) Suits relating t trust property Where the suit is only for the enforcement of a trust in accordance with the terms of the trust deed and no beneficial interest is claimed for the plaintiff the suit will not be a suit for land merely by reason of the trust property being land or other immovable property 6 But where the title to the trust property is in dispute it will be a suit for land ? (c) Suits for the altranstration of the estate of a deceased person -In a suit by a

  - owner against another for damages for cutting the barrier area in the plaintiffs colliery the substantial question was held to be one of title to the said barrier are, and the suit a suit for land 11 But a suit for the damages caused by the erection of certain workshops by the defendant and for an injunction restraining the nursauce caused thereby was held not to be a suit for land 12. Where in a suit for an injunction and damages for obstruction to the plaintiffs lawfully removing certain building, the defendants disputed the plaintiffs right to the buildings, the Rangeon High Court held that the real dispute in the suit was with reference to immovable property 13

title to the property was nevertheless held to be not a suit for land as no relief such as possession in respect of land was involved therein 14

- (1) Suit for specific performance A suit by a rendor for the specific performance of a contract of sale 13 not a suit for land as neither title nor possession or any other interest in land is substantially affected but a suit by a sender for specific performance of the contract of sale is a suit for land 16 Similarly a suit for the specific performance of an agreement to mortgage has been held to be one for land isa
- (g) Suits for dissolution of partnership -On an application to file an award by in arbitrator dissolving a partnership providing for the sale of immovable property of the partnership and for the execution of a mortgage by one partner to unother for the amount found due by the former it was held that the proceeding was not a stat for land but only for the discolution of a partnership and for the adjustment of the mutual claims between the putners out of the partnership property 17
- (h) Suris for sent -A suit for ront is not a suit for land though in determining the rate of rent an issue as to the nature of the tenancy has to be raised 18 but if a lessee sues the lessor for rents and profits on account of wrongful dispossession by the lessor the claim is one for possession by way of receiving rents and profits and the suit is one for land 19

t cognizable by in English Court of Equity or the specific performance of a contract to execute a mortgage of property outside Bombay and for the recovery of the mortgage debt was within the original jurisdiction of the Bombay High Court The reasoning was that such a suit was one of the sind in which a Court of Equity in England could exercise jurisdiction in personant with respect to immovable projecty lying outside juriediction and that the High Court in India had all the purisdiction of the Equity Courts in England Clause 12 of the Letters Patent was held not to have taken away such jurisdiction from the High Courts in India The ratio decidends of the decision in Hollar scare was adopted in a number of subse quent cases and suits for forcolosure21 or for the specific performance of a contract to sell'1 were held to be in the bomby High Court notwithstanding that the immovable projects to ferred to in the mortgage or contract was outside jurisdiction. In 1921, in I enhatrace v Alamia -2 a suit on a mortgano of immovable property outside Bombas was held to be in the High Court But the Court in this case went further and laid down that such a suit was not a suit for land but only for a debt. The question was decided with reference to the term suit for land ' in Clause 12 of the Letters Patont rather than on the analogy of the Lugiish Louit puri diction. The authority of Holhar's case was not accepted by Fawcett J in lesk uadabat . Janardhan "s where he held that a suit for a declaration of a charge for mainten ance on immoval le property was a 'suit for land | But in a later case's the same Judge feel ing him elf bound by Veulairao v Khirings held that such a suit though a suit for land would be in the High Court in the exercise of the equity jurisdiction in personameten if the land was outside Bombay Lenlatrao v Khimpita nas followed in Jasraj v dinbai Chut 1 at dissented from in In ha Spinning and Wearing Company v Climas Sindicate" by a Bench cl three Judges who held

The Bunkay High Court also has held that a suit for administration of the estate of a deceared person is not a suit for land though the estate may consist of unmovable property di-

S Sutt far land partly within and partly without jurnsdiction—The words, "either wholly, or, in case the leave of the Court shall have been first obtained in part," must be taken to upply not only to the words." If the cause of action shall have arisen, but also to the words. "property shall be situated." The operative words of this Clause in so far as they relate to suits for land or other immovable property should therefore be reproduced as follows—"It, in case of suits far land or other immovable property, such land or property shall be intuated, either wholly, in, in case the leave of the Court shall have been first obtained, in part, within the local binats, etc." It follows that in suits for land only prifty within the local limits, the Court has pursidation to try the whit is unit provided the leave of the Gourt is first obtained. But if no leave is obtained, the Court may entertain the suit only in so far as the property within the local limits is concerned."

The provision for leave contained in this Clause with regard to suits for land will not however, sanction the institution of a such which would offend the rise as to inspinder of parties and causes of action. Thus where a mortgages sub mortgaged his mortgage interact to the plaintiff over the mortgagers; property situated in the moffusial and included in the sub-mortgages sume of his own property situated in Calcutts, a suit in the Calcutts High Court, by the sub-mortgages against the original mortgage and the mortgages to enforce the sub-mortgage cannot he and no leave can be granted though one of the properties in the sub-mortgage is within the local limits of the original jurisdiction of the Calcutta High Court?

6 "Suits of every description"—The High Court has jurisdiction under this Clause in suits concerning natification bunkter among the Jews, 10 camong the Parsis except in matters coming within the jurisdiction of a special Court constituted under the Parsi Marriaca Act;

9 Leave of Court -Leave in suo is not a formal matter of procedure but is the foundation for the exercise of jurisdi tion by the Court! It must therefore, be obtained before the Court tecomes empowered to receive try or determine the suit 2 Such leave will onurs only for the anil or the cause of action | I r whi h or against the defendant in respect of whom it was granted. Leave must be distinctly applied for and granted and connot be implied 6. It is a judicial act of a Court and cannot be delegated to a ministerial officer?

The grapt of leave is a matter within the discretion of the Court 8 In the exercise of their discretion the Courts can take into consideration the convenience of parties 9

Where leave has been at first granted but it is found that the plaint does not obviously disclose a ground justifying leave the plaintiff may be permitted at the trial to allege and

The question whether leave has been granted under Cl 12 does not affect the pic entr tion of the 1 hint for the purposes of S 3 of the Limitation Act 1"

10 Wayver of want of

te naived has been considered in point One view is that the als

Court in respect of the suit and that consequently neither waiter nor consent can confer the purediction on the Court 1 The opposite view is that in such cases there is no inherent lick of jurisdiction that the want of leave is only a defect in formality and that it can be united $ It is submitted that the former view is correct Clause 12 of the Letter, Patent obviously lays down that the ordinary original perisdiction in suits can be exercised by the High Court provided only that certain conditions mentioned therein exist. The obtaining of leave is distinetly enjoined as a condition in certain cases and it is provided that such leave shall have heen first obtained. The wording of the Clause clearly shows that the Court his no jouer even to receive a plaint unless such leave is obtained. The leave contemplated by the Clin o constitutes as has been seen in Note 9 above the foundation of the existence of jury liction and 19 not a matter of procedure for which provision is made separately in Clauses 37 and 38 of the Letters I atent Objections to jurisdiction for want of leave can be ruised at any time $

In any event the question of waiver can arise only in a case inhere the plaintiff alleges facts on the crais of which the necessity for leave arises but not where he alleges grounds in high ontitle him to sue without any leave If in the latter case he fails to prove those ground his suit will be disini sed and no question of warrer can arise by reason of the defendant takir, no objection on the score of want of loave !

11 Rescussion of leave -Leave may be granted ex parte but it is open to the defendant to question it ! He can appear and apply for resocution of leave without waiting for the tiral? He is not houser bound to make such an application. He can wait and insist on hisin, the legality of the have tried as an issue at the trial 3 In fact it is much better that did cult questions involving issues of fact or law boaring on the grant of leave are decided upon the hearing of the suit 4 But where heavy costs are likely to be incurred or serious inconveniences caused it is always better to apply for revocation it the earliest po sible of portunits $

or in consequence of the balance of convenience or the cheapness of the trial 1

The power of removal is not limited to any particular possed or eas of the suit and so long as the proceedings in the original Court are in such a condition that one party is entitled to ask that Court to determine any question material to the final result of the suit the suit is in existence in the original Court and is calable of being removed to the High Court under this Clause ? In the undermentioned ease it was held that the High Court can transfer a case pending in a moffussil Court to itself and pass inters norders ther on, but has no power to do so in cases not an pending ">

It has been held by the Righ Courts of Calentin Vairis and Rangoon that the appli on the oss al side of the High

the undermentioned Bombay case as High Court.

2 Suit-Meaning of-Proceedings for the grant of probate which are contested come within the meaning of the word suit as used in this clause I

3 Transfer of petition from Privincial Insolvency Court - An application under this Clause to remove an insolvency petition pending in a moffuseil Court and to transfer it for trini and disposal to the original side of the High Court is not maintainable! The reason is that the powers conferred by S 5 of the Provincial Insotvency Act (V of 1920) which are made subject to the other provisions of the Act cannot be exet ised in such a way as to give the original side of the Migh Court a jurisdiction from which it is expressly excluded by the forms of that section read with this Clause

4 Subject to its superintendence - The civil Court of the Political Resident at idea as constituted by the Aden Courts Act (II of 1861) is subject to the superintendence of the High Court at Bombay within the meaning of this Clause even though no appeal her to the Righ Court from decrees or orders of the Roudent and therefore the High Court has power to remove under this Clause a suit from that Court to itself for trial and determination 1

5 Transfer of suit from Presidency Small Cause Court -The Presidency Small Cause Court is a Court subjet to the superiotendence of the High Court The litter cantherefore romove to itself under this Clause a suit pending before such Smalt Cause Court?

6 Powers of High Court in suits transferred under this Clause -In dealing with suits transferred under this Clau e the High Court has no more powers than those of the Court from which the suit is transferred ! Thus the Itigh Court cannot allow an amendment of a plaint in a suit transferred from the Madras City Civil Court so as to convert it into one which auch City Civil Court would have no jurisdiction to try Under S 11 of the Madras City Civil Court tot (VII of 1892) it is specifically provided that the Court leo payable on a suit so trans ferred from the Madras City Civil Court mast be calculated according to the Rules in force in the High Court in relation to quits filed on the original side of the High Court ?

7 High Court's power to receive plaints -This Ctanso provides only that the High Court may comere to itself a suit rending in a Court subject to its superintendence. It does

8 Appeal -The High Court of Midras has held that an order of a Judge of the High Court on the original side transferring to the High Court a suit under this clause is a 'judg ment ' within the meaning of Cl 15 infra and is therefore appealable ! Such causes of action not being for Joinder of several causes of action

1 Joinder of several causes of action - The word several in the expression several causes of action means separate 1. This clause applies only where some causes of action arise within and some without the ordinary original jurisdiction of the High Court It does not apply to cases where all the several causes of action arise within such jurisdiction? It is not necessary that the causes of action outside the ordinary original unreduction, should have arisen within the extraordinary original jurisdiction contemplated by C1 13 ante. They may arise even outside the Presidency 3

an application under this clause for leave to join several causes of action can be made also in a case in which leave has to be or has been obtained under C! 12 aufe 4

To bring a case within this clause it is not necessary that the defendant should adult that any cause of action has arisen within the original jurisdiction of the High Court 5

Such causes of action not being for land - The expression such causes of action not being for land qualifies the words several causes of action and refers to cases where plaintiff has several causes of action other than causos of action for land or athur immovable That is to say in considering this clause any cause of action which is for land or other immovable property must be excluded and if the sole cause of action within jurisdic tion is one i rland or if the sole cause of action outside the jurisdiction is one for land then this clause will have no operation !

that an order granting leave to suc under C1 12 of the Letters Piteut7 or an order setting aside an abatements or an order rejecting an application for a judgment on admissions under O 12 R 6 of the Civil Procedure Code is a judgment, on the ground that they must be taken to determine some right. These decision, it is submitted exmit he supported even on the basis of the definition which they purport to adopt. In none of these cases are the mention affected and there is no determination of any right or hibility which is the matter in con troversy in the suit or proceeding. In Ebrahim , Fael runisa Bejam 10 Garth, C J expressed the view that the word 'judgment means a judgment or decree which decides the case one was or the other in its entirety and that it does not mean a decision or order of an interloca tory nature which merely decides some isolated point not affecting the merits or the results A similar view was adopted in the cases cated below 11 In Mt Brail amora Ramrick Dass 12 Miclein C J was of opinion that the definition of Couch C J was becoming classical but that it was not exhaustive 13 In Brojogopal Roy Barman v Apar chandra Bhattacharna I L R of Caf 13o F B it was held that the mere fact that an order puts in peril the finality of a decision given to a person a favour does not of itself, make the order a indement within the meaning of this clause. It was doubted whether such orders as an order setting aside an abatement or an order guing leave to appeal could be considered judgment

The definition of Couch C J given above has been accepted generally in the Bombay High Court 14

The earliest attempt to define the word underment as used in this clause was under the thigh Court of Vidaria in DeSoura Colerts and it was held that the unit and election of determination affecting the rights or interests of the suitor or applicant. It was all pointed out that it was not possible to present control to this clause. This definition has however been considered to be set; used in the not been clause. An order refusing leave to appeal under this clause is not appealable $

In the case cited below the High Court of Rungoons injected an application for leave to appeal which was filed four months after the magment in second appeal

- 12 Cross objections -It has been held that the provisions of the Code of Civil Pro a dure relating to cross objections do not apply to appeals under this clause 1
- Security for costs -In an appeal under this clause the High Court has power to direct the appellant to furnish security for costs and on his failure to comply their with it can reject the anject under the provisions of O 41, R 10(2) of the Code 1
- Points on which appeal may be heard -It is not ordinarily open to the parties to the on an appeal under this clause a contention which has not been urged before the Court from the judgment of which the appeal is preferred unless the point is one reliting to juitediction or 1 uses a pure question of law 2 But the Court is not however, confined to ficts and circumstances as disclosed on the judgment appealed against it is ontitled to look into the judgment of the lower appellate Court 3

Wrong exercise of discretion-Whether may be a ground of appeal -The High Court of All thabrds has held that an order passed in the exercise of judicial discretion vosted in a single Judge of the High Court is not appealable as a judgment under this clause. The High Court of Madras's has on the other hand held that the fact of a matter boing within the discretion of the original Judge is not a ground for refusing to entertain the appeal but a suffi cont reason for doclining to interfero with that discretion

- 1 Between our subjects professing the Christian religion -This Clause was intended to it like in a wider and modern form the coole justical juri-diction of the Supreme C urt and its so pe was confined to proceedings in which both the parties were Christians I Se als Paragraph 33 of the Despit b from the Secretary of State dited 14th May 1861 mignan, the first Letters Patent of the Calcutta High Court 12 But the limitat on has now teen removed by the enactment of the Indian Divorce Act IV of 1869 which does not require that both parties should profess the Christian religion. The High Court has therefore purisdiction to entertain a suit for restriction of conjugal rights instituted by a Christian woman against her husband who is a Parsee 3
- Both parties other than Christians -it was held by the Privy Council in the undermentioned case! that the Supreme Court of Bombay had no jurisdiction to enter tun a suit on it, ecclesiastical side by a Parsee wile against a Parsee husband for the restitution of conjugal rights. Their Lordships of the Privy Council also observed is follows -

Ent we should much regret il there were no Court and no law whereby a remedy could be administered to the evils which must be incidental to mair ed life igning them Clan e 12 auto was intended to remove this difficulty and by virtue of that Claise the High Court has juri diction to entertain a uit arising out of matrinioni id putca between terson other than Christians for instance between Jews 2

- 3 Respondent not within the Presidency The High Court has 10 jurisdiction to grant elsefit was of relitation of conjugal rights against a re-pondent who is absent from the presidence at the time the suit is justified and remains absent sub equently al<sub>o</sub>o l
- 4 Matters matrimonial -The jurisdiction of the High Court in matters matri monial is only such jurisdiction as is comprised within the provisions of the Indian Divorce Act IV of 1669 therefore a sust for a declaration that a marriage was a valid and lawful marriage does not he 1 Similarly a suit does not he under this Clause to declare a marriage null and told on the ground that the essential ceremonies have not been performed 2

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Bill is sufficiently explained in the Report of the Special Committee printed below.

Simla 3rd September, 1907

Peport of the Special Committee appointed to consider the amendment of

the Cuil Proced tre Code

We have the honour to present this report on the projects to amend the Codo of C P which have been submitted for our consideration by the Government of India and unced to it a drift Bill unseeded by us A detailed account of the alterations introduced in the Bill mill be found in the Notes on clauses which form the second part of this Report but we desire by wave of prefere to mike some observations of a general character on the defects in the studing law which appear to us to call for reform and on the more important of those alterinous

1 The Code of C P of 1862 has been in force for 25 years and the experience of these cars his shown that the general lines on which it proceeds are sound. The mitters in which it his proved defective are for the most part mitters of defail and they arise, as it seems to be the control of the mitter in amount from the first that it is impossible to frame a fixed and rigid Code in such a manuer as to sufficiently meet the varying needs of an are-so discribed as that to which the Code apple in our opinion it is essential that there should be some machinery to enable variations to be introduced in procedure to meet the different sequirements of different localities as well as the complete of the control of the code of the complete of the code of the complete of the code of the complete of the code of the complete of the code of the complete of the code of the complete of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of the code of th

venience must arise from this cause in the first instance but this is but a small disadvantage in we cannot think that are should stand in the wef

3 The adoption of this principle has necessarily involved a departure from the arrangement of the present Code but in other respects we have advectly adhered as closely as possible to the existing lunguage the merining of which is now well understood by Courts and by principlinesses freeling center.

rather than to promound we recognize the second process of the court and it consequence, to encourage technicalities. For this reason we have made no ittempt to embod in the Code adject of the very numerous decisions on the earsting sections we have middle maneudments to meet case law only on joints on which there is no flict of authority. Make a maneudment of clubority propisions in regard to procedure than it the time when its own less justification for the enactment of clubority propisions in regard to procedure than it the time when the Code of 1852 was proced. Since then the standard of legal efficiency in the ordinal live level materially rived and the principles of procedure are now so well undesited that the Courts may be trusted to apply them intelligently in evers for which no provision may, be made in terms.

Fut although we have made the present Code the basis of our drift we have carefully stryin cit the III stiffet I blie Scheet Committee in 193 and we destuce to express our acking the properties of the Committee for the store of information it contains and for the many it is collected within Henry!

Apart from the te arrangement to which reference has been made we have not introduced many changes of a radical character in the Code

- 4. The general reduce of some of the amendments, we recommend may be conveniently all it is a large semination of the extent to which the various stages of a saw will be #fice ally them.
- 1. To legar with at whose of that the multiplicate of suits will be further curtailed by the zero proxisces we have inserted to remove limitations which we regard is needless on the comprehensive seta but and is the wider powers of amendment vested in the Courts worder die isl. An adaptive che is provided by the power of a Court to interfere where embarcase meets thele to be with.
- B. Increased fielding have been given for the critico of process to which further reform of a large modern Clause. It is haped that in the gradual autolization of sortice by a large k found a solution of one of the principal diffects in our legal system.
- C. In our opioion, it is not sees ears that highests in this contains should come to triple in the clearly defice. I and that each bould not be expanded or grounds, which destribes referring to the five first the turps of we think that the present system of pleadings in the many distribution of the whole is the many of the clearly stated and who has a work which the first wide of the first plantage with hint they divide all lead to sounder and favor whether the first wide is the first whole in the motive of the first way but to the first who may be a first the many the first whole to the first whole the first whole the first whole the first way is the first whole the first way in the motive of the first way is the first whole the first way in the motive of the first way is the first way in the first way.

be have not been able within the time at our dispo all to make these forms of the other form to the appendix to Schedule I complete. But this is a matter of detail which can be further oundered before the Bill by its colourless.

- Diffinot possible to seture expedition in the disposal of suits that is, the questions of fact on which there is a rill context no narrowed down is far vajo oble. As a step toward, this we have used posted in the roles an Orler in which provision is under for the dimession out only of documents but also of free. It must be let be little its only their daylines to make ade patte use of the Orler. In it is knoped that the Courts will encourage the new of its wave it corrows. Both and orlers to the work of the time of the value of the orlers will encourage the new of its wave it corrows.
- E We attack much importance to a proper in leave and elective courts in the worful of the procedure presented for the first herring. The code writefund makes provision for examination of prince by the Court and we have altered the larguage so is to compel the production of decrements at the first herring. In our opinion, this will act is a will taxticle their owther furneering of decrementary endomes.
- F. The groups of relating to the heiring of suits do not call for material alteration but we have thought it well to ground expired to the theiring and delivers of judgment. It would obviouble to wrong that such an accident should be around the terms and vehicle therefore with the disposal of the crist and vehicle therefore week degree and vehicle therefore week degree and vehicle therefore week degree and vehicle therefore week degree and vehicle therefore week degree and vehicle therefore week degree and vehicle therefore week degree and vehicle therefore week degree and vehicle therefore week degree and vehicle therefore week degree and vehicle therefore week degree and vehicle therefore week degree and vehicle therefore week degree and vehicle therefore week degree and vehicle therefore we have the vehicle therefore we will be a supported to the vehicle therefore we will be a supported to the vehicle therefore we will be a supported to the vehicle therefore we will be a supported to the vehicle that the vehicle therefore we will be a supported to the vehicle that the vehicle there is the vehicle that the vehicle there is the vehicle that the vehicle there is the vehicle that the vehicle there is the vehicle that the vehicle there is the vehicle that there is the vehicle that the vehicle there is the vehicle that the vehicle there is the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle the vehicle that the vehicle there is the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehicle that the vehi
- 6. Change of waperture has been made in regard to due eet. In the first lace we have needed an express proxision recognizing the distinction between the most performance and device. We hope to this way be afford fredittes for chicking, the letter that so it reads to the objectionable practice of leaving for determination in execut on questions which should be decided by the decree. The change should ensure the more expedit us dig to be casts which the process and the continuous casts which the process and the process are such when the process and the process are decreased invested of wapertured which we have introduced in in legar I to most kips and "These are very source to the theory of the process of the finite of source ordinate has been expedited by the consistence of the provision of the Thinter's cours conditions in the first source was a let the occasiones of the first source of the provision regulating this matter's —2 to doubt with in their entirely in the Code and we have threefore unreduced in the Code and we have threefore unreduced in the Code and we have threefore unreduced in the Code and we have threefore unreduced in the Code and we have threefore unreduced in the Code and we have threefore unreduced in the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the Code and we have threefore without of the

In our opinion, it is expedient to give greater assistance to the Courts in the framing of decrees. The importance of this branch of procedure cannot be over rated, it is surrounded by difficulties which are a fruitful source of error and consequently of litigation. We have amplified the provisions of the Code to meet this defect, and have miroduced some forms which can be adopted to meet the requirements of undividual cases. We think that further forms might be added with davantage teloue the Bill becomes law.

- H Amongst other matters, we have removed limitations which at present exist on the power of appointing Receivers, and have conferred a power to appoint Receivers on Subordinate Courts.
- Execution -The subject of execution is, perhaps one of the most difficult with which we have had to deal. The present system in the molustil at any rate, tends to exce use delay and affords facilities for defeating the claims of creditors. At the same time the creditor often has only himself to blame owing to his own luches in prosecuting his rights. In the Presidence Town the same objections cannot be fairly raised the system works well, whilst in the motussil the difficulties arise not so much from the machinery itself as from the defective manner in which it is worked. One of the most fruitful sources of hitgation is the setting a ide of execution sales on the ground of irregularity in the publication of the sale proclamation. It 14 notorious that in many of these cases the Court's officer either through negligence or dis honesty has not duly published the proclamation but it is impossible to deal with such cases by any provision in a Code After a most careful consideration of the subject, we have not seen our way to any very drastic changes in the present system. We have found ourselves unable to accept the some what far reaching proposal of the Committee of 1902 in relation to the execu tion of decrees by precept but we are so far in accord with the view expressed by that Com mittee as to have been able to meert in the Bill a clause which chables the Court which pased the decree to issue a precept to any other Court to attach property of the judgment deligi pending execution in the erdinary course. Boyond this we have felt we could not safely go

We anticipate that there will be a substantial saving of time and consequent expense from the provision requiring that messe profits shall be ascertained by the Court under the decree itself and not a now in execution proceedings.

on a -pc 111 case under S 517 and to allow one appeal as from order under S. 521, 523 and 526. And I wang regard to the rather wale language of the Indicast Committee in Children series we have further thought it advisable to under the elevathat an order graining an application either under S 23 or S 525 is not to be decimed a decree within the meaning of the Code, otherwise there would be a under right of appeal from orders under these sections than from a decree under S 222. The other alterations deed with the text rather than with any question of

- policy of Trinciple 7. Suits relating to public matters —We have inserted a clause to enable actions for pullic matters to be brought with the consent of the advocate General priceporaries of special damage. It has been represented to us that such a power is needed and we concur in that time.
- Public Charites —The sugge ton his been mide on high authority that some on pre-reference should be made in the Code to the power of the Court to apply Cypics details in the calling of schemes. But this power would appear to exist already within its proper limits (Vance of I year on e LR 3 I A 32) and we do not think it necessary to make express reference to it.
- I have been epper ented to us to be more thru one goutlemm who e opinion is entitled to weight that the power to enquire into the affairs of public clarities should be made more extensive. The clause as it stands, gives sufficient powers to the Courts to disect accounts and to finme homes when once a suit has been instituted but it is and that members of the public interested in any public charts ought to have the means of calling for and inspecting accounts without undertaking the barden of a suit at least in the first instance. We are told that receivings districted from charitable trusts are in some crossery large in amount that in one eccunits of their paperal time are ordinarily rendered and that there is good ground for believing that a countie, the partner is required on understood operation.

The Hon ble Dr Rushhehary Ghose supports these views and has submitted a clause to give effect to them. It is in the following terms -

- 93 A (1) The Court may also upon an application by any two or more per one having the like interest and having obtained the like convent direct any trustee of such charity to crue to be prepared and filed in the Court within such time as may be specified in the order a detuiled account of the receipts and disbursements in connection with the trust property for a period not exceeding there were many the disbursements of the application.
  - (2) Such accounts when fied in Court shall be open to inspection by the public
  - (3) A trustee who fails to comply with any such direction shall be removed if a suit for that purpose be instituted unices he can show good cause for such fullule
- We have given to the subject our best consideration and desire to record our amplitum with the motives of the proposers. But we have not masted the clause in the Bull because we think that the question is one of policy on which the public opinion of the communities uniterest? I hould first be obtained. It inflects primarily as we understand the Hindlu and to a less scient the Muhammadan community. And we should not feel justified in recommending an amendment of the law on such a subject as this unless the leaders of those communities were to express their approximation by proposal in inequivocal terms. If it is returned the clause proposed by To flosso may be accepted
- 3 Suits by or against firms Attention is directed to the new provision in regard to suits by or against firms (O NN) which will we hope prove acceptable to the commercial community.
- 10 New procedure—We have given power to provide by Rules for Counter thing Third Party Pro edure Summar. Procedure in suits for debt or inpudated demands as for instance tent or un other default sum payable under a control and originating summons. We are of opinion that these forms of proceeding may neefally be adopted in some aires but that this is a matter which should be left for each High Court to decode
- Il Appeals—ha regards appeals from original decrees we have departed but slightly from the existing. Code. We have thoughtst admixable to give legislative sanction to the rew to no appeal shall he from a consent decree or as to costs except to leave of the Court but the original shall he from a consent decree or as to costs except to leave of the Court but the original shall he from a consent decree or as to costs except to leave of the Court but the decree to appeal from that decree at ness on an appeal from the final decree tending to that which is so desirable,

V.

As regards appeals from appellate decrees the ouls substantial departure from the ex-Code is the insert on of Clause 103 Experience has shown the desirability of this clause the effect of which will be to avo d remands with their consequent delay and expense which allow an appeal from any order made under Rules from which an appeal is expre if allowed by Rules We have gone carefully into the question of the cases in which an appeal should be allowed from these orders and our conclusion is expressed in the Rules themselves 12 Rules -The distribution of the provisions of the Codo between the body of the Bil and the Rules is a matter on which opinions may well differ. The general principle on which we have proceeded has been to keep in the body of the Bill those provisions which appear to be to be fundamental and those provisions which confer powers operating outside the Province in which the Court is situated. In some cases we have adopted the plan of inserting leading provisions in the Bill stating in general terms the powers of the Court and of lea ing the details to Rules in matters of less importance the provisions have been relegated altogether to Rules The result of this re arrangement is to reduce the Act as distinct from Schedules to 155 clauses. The existing order of sequence has speaking generally been majutained but the reduced bulk of the Bill has rendered it no longer necessary to reproduce the division into chapters

It is proposed to vest the power of making Rules in High Courts subject to the control of Local Governments (or in the case of the Calcutty High Court of the Govern ment of India) but we think it most desirable that in exercising this power the Courts should have the advice of representatives of the various branches of the legal profession and we have accordingly provided that in the ease of Chartered High Courts and of Chief Courts Rules shall only be made after those Courts have taken the opinion of a Rais Committee on which there will be representatives of the Bar of Valuels or Pleaders and in Presidency towns of Attorneys In the case of other High Courts power has been given to establish such Rule Committees as the Governor General in Council may determine It's believed that Standing Committees of this kind will be of great value. We have thought it better to require the same sanction as is required by the Indian High Courts Act of 1861 14 order that the rule making power should correspond with the power conferred under that Act but we are of opiniou that in the interest of uniformity it is expedient that all amendments of Rules should be communicated to the Government of India and to other Righ Courts before sanction is given to them. This wo understand can be effected by executive order

If our proposal is adopted it will probably be useful to publish annually in every Pro since some manual corresponding to the English Annual Practice containing -

- (1) the Act.
- (2) all Rules of procedure made under it or under other acts in the Province,
- (3) notes of decisions on the Act and Rules
- 13 We are sensible that there may be defects and flaws in the Bill which we append to this Report The subject is complicated and technical and the time at our disposal has been limited. We do not doubt therefore that much improvement may be made in the Bill before it is finally presed into law But in our opinion, it is framed on the right lines. We hiere for the reasons we have stated that in any reform of Civil Procedure it is essential to introduce some elasticity, to give wider powers of control to the High Courts and to invest them with a larger discretion in regard to the conduct of eases which come before them. Mr Dil bi our deliberations and we take

m his experience of the working nowledgments of the services of

Mr Law of the Legislative Department who has attended to the clerical and Iress work to our entire satisfaction

Prehminary

Can all the defentions have been rearranged in althabetical order

It is competitive of the definition of the word detree rests on the first that is referent to the right of type-1 is determined. The Committee have in the main althered to the existing definition, but the have modified it in two respects and this his movided a light receiving of the linguage. The junique modification aims at permitting an appeal from an adjudication which part outs to settle the rights of the juries, though it does not completely

In pose of the suit. Such an algorithment the Committee describe as a preliminary decree.

The explanation is noted before the make it elevit that a decree may be partly final and puttly preliminary. Thus, a decree for the recovery of possission of immoreable property and for me in explicit would be of this mixed chiracter.

The word within has been sub-tituted for mentioned or referred to in with a view to being within the definition of decree or lers against sureties (see Cl. 142) and orders as to Coart fees in payers runts (see O NVMIL R 13) and thus providing for appeals therefrom

The only other modification is for the purpose of excluding a right of appeal from an order of dismin all for default

It als first late —We have in crited a definition of legal representative —an extines in which has been amounts interpreted by the High Courts as would appear from the reported receive his are not easily reconcilable with one another. See S.C.W. N. 843 in which aims tail the carbier receive are reviewed.

The Committee trust that the definition which has been added by them will set at rest what owing to the absence of any such definition from the present Gode is a some what debat able point

Meme profits—The Committee have altered the definition of means profits as a six occlude from the calculation any increased rents and profits due to improvement; made by the person in wrongful possession for which he cannot at present claim compensation from the rightful owner either by way of mutigation of damages or otherwise.

Clause 4—The clause as drafied will it is believed effect till the sayings covered by S. 4.

of the Code. The concluding paragraph of that section is believed to be obsolete and has accordingly not been reproduced. On this point the opinions of Local Governments are invited

Clause 6 —In view of the extended scope of Cl 4 the reproduction of Ss 6 and 7 (except as to the final paragraph of S 6) does not appear to be necessary

The words or protedings in sixts. have been introduced in this clause to negative the account to which a decrees sent for execution has pursished to to execut the decree though the amount exceeds the limits of the pecuniary jurisdiction of the Court a point on which there is a conflict of opinion (ILL R IN VM 300 IL R IS Col. 465, 461)

Clause 7 —The provisions as to Provincial Small Cause Courts have been rearranged in a bat is hoped in a more convenient form

PART I -SHITS IN GENERAL

The provisions contained in S 10 of the Code were first circled by Act \I of 1836 and were reprodued in the Code of 1839 and in subsequent Code. In the opinion of the Committee their retention is no longer necessary and they have been omitted

Clause 11—Res paintals—It is not possible to make a compiler exposition of a subject so complex as that of res paintaind within the himst of a section of an Act and the Committee than it better to received 8 13 as it stands in the Gode with such modifications only as experience has shown to be nece sary

The Committee recognize that a proceeding does not come within the language of that section but they think it better not to deal with this point in express terms for the reason that the applicability of the doctrine of res judicate to certain proceedings is not open to doubt, and they forsee that any express reference to proceedings in a crystallised definition might only lead to difficulties (L. R. 11. 4.3 and L. R. 29.6.1.07).

The word another has been substituted for former as being more in conformity with Indian decisions

Explanation I is new and is intended to affirm the view that the competence of the jurisdiction of a Court does not depend on the right of appeal from his decision

Lxplanation VI —The inclusion of public rights is to give due effect to suits relating to public mustances (Cl. 91)

Clause 12 -This clause is new and is necessitated by the transfer of certain of the provisions of the existing Code to Rules

Clause 13 —The provisions as to foreign judginouts have been rearranged and as it is hoped stated more clearly

Section 14—The last paragraph has been omitted. It appears to the Committee that it not possible to maintain this distinction in the case of all Asiatic Courts. The Courts of Japan for instance are entitled to be treated on the same footing as European Courts. They know of no satisfactory distinction which could be drawn so as to give effect to the intention of the existing provisions and they recommend that the paragraph should be omitted and that Courts should rely on the powers given by Cl. 13

Place of sunny —The provisions under this heading have been collected and re arranged Clause 10 (a) —The insertion of the words with or without rent or profits is intended to remore any difficulty there may be where the defendant does not reside within the local limits of the Court within whose jurisdiction the property is situate

Clause 18 -The Committee have added words to this clause in order still further to restrict the taking of technical objections as to jurisdiction

Clause 20.—The Commuttee have ometted Explanation ILL of S 17 which has become unnecessary owing to the addition made to sub cl (c) of the words wholly or in part in reference to the sause of action

Clause 24.—The words at any stage have been added to remove the difficulty created by the view that a suit cannot be transferred after the hearing has once commenced as to which there is a conflict of decision

Clauses 26-35 -The provisions in Chapters III to WIII of the present Code have been in the main relegated to Rules but such general provisions as are believed to be essential have been preserved in Cl 20 to 3s

been preserved in Cl 26 to 3.

Clauss 32—The Committee have omsitted the last paragraph of S 136 of the Code so they think nuncessary to impose penal consequences for a default of the class indicated

PART II -EXECUTION

Clauser 30—74.—The hull of the provisions us to execution will be found in the Role that the mun provisions as to the Courte by which decrees may be executed the questions to be determined by Courte executing decrees the limit of time for execution transferres and legit expresentistives procedure in execution arrest and attainment the religious to Collectors of power to execute certain decrees the distribution of assets and resistance to execution have been returned in the body of the Bill

Clause 46—Precept —Though a system of execution based on precepts is in the opin of the Committee open to grave objection they think the idea may but ultimed for the purpot of enabling a decree holder to obtain an interim attachment where there is ground to apprehend that he may otherwise be deprived of the first of his decree. They have for this purpose 11 troduced Cl 46 into the Bill They think it expedient to first time limit for the continuin of this interim attachment but it the same time they have empowered the Court to extend the period to meet the exigences of particular cues

After careful consideration ment under a precept re attachm sary Though at first sight it ma not be necessary when the issue o tion after careful consideration to a re attachment, having regard to the agency hy which execution is carried into effect

Clause 47 —The Committee have omitted sub-cls (a) and (b) of S 244 of the existing Code because they are strongly of opinion that questions regarding the amount of any mesue

p ofits or interest should be defermined by the decree and not in execution. If this view is accepted it will be possible to exercit a an effective control over the action taken by Subordinate Courts in dealing with yould institled.

The Committee have re drafted and el (3) and middle computage on the Court to determine questions arring a to representative of parties. In the opposition at a many-placing that separate tauts should be methated for the decision of anch questions. The delix and expense unabled are effect a car great and result in the medities protraction of bitterino.

The explanation is intended to put an end to a conflict of judicial decision

Scenar 257 t - The Committee think, that S 257 d max be consided with ultimatage. It was first enacted by act VII of 1879 with a view to protect the interests of judgment debtors we by degree holders. The section has given rase to come by the third Courts in found in mactino to

16 of the Indian Contract Act is amended
where it is required

Clause 51.—This clause states generally the powers of the Court in regain to execution leaving the details to be determined by rule. If will be observed that the power to direct immediate execution 1 no longer restricted to one class of suits but that it is now general in term. In planitation that may be found necessary will be imposed by rules.

Clave 35—Ha been idded by the Committee in order to set at rest a question on which the High Courts are divided in opinion. It is from that where a son or grands on takes any ancestral projects by survivor thy be a bound to pay out of such property ill debts of his ancester not incurred for immorth or illegal purposes but whether the creditor can follow the property in the hand it has son or grands on nexecution is a debtained point under the Code. The question is merel one of procedure and the Committee have come to the conclusion that any controvers between the patter with regard to the lithight of this sou or grandson to pay the debts of his ancestor should be determined in execution it being open to them to raise any objection or defence in such proceedings which they might have raised in a separate such is stituted by the creditor the tituse in question not imposing upon them a greater highlity than that imposing by the filling when the proceedings of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processing of the processin

Clause 50 (1) seemed provise .—The object of this provise is to prevent vexitious forms of resistance to execution which constantly obstruct decree holders in the execution of their decrees

Clause 55 (2) — The sub clause is intended to cover the case of certain persons or classes of persons whose summary areal might as in the case of railway servants be attended with danger or inconvenience to the public

Clave 61—The Committee have reproduced his Clause from the times Bill (Cl. 202 B) in accordance with whit they undersland to be the values of the Government. But the centilions should in their opinion be so modified as to release the Courts from fixing the portion to be released from threshold.

To mip 0. this duty on the Courts would materially moreuse their work in a matter in regard to which they are not in a position to form the best opinion and would probably result in an undescribe lack of uniformity

an understatle lack of uniformitic

Clause 02 The committee have inverted a new provision to uniform the breaking open of the outer door of a judgment debtor's house. They do not think that it would be safe to extend the operation of the provision to the hops of a stranger Section SSS -This extent of the present Code first upwars in the Code of 1877. It was not suggested by any decuded over and the only explanation offered by the Soliest Committee, by whome trans stretched at a s. of these

whom it was introduced as as follows—

"We think that the pecchimation of execution sales should state the incumbrance, (if any)
to which the interest about to be sold as hable and we have provided that no Judgo etc. shall do no necable for error in the proclamation, unless at this sheet committed (alphonestic.)

The Committee are of opinion that, having regard to the provisions of Act VIII of 1850, the section may safely be omitted

Clause 64 — in explanation has been added to make it clear that claims within the protection of this clause include claims for raterble destribution of assets.

The word another has been substituted for lormer as being more in conformity with Indian decisions

Indian decisions

Explanation I is new and is intended to affirm the view that the competence of the jurisdiction of a Court does not depend on the right of appeal from his decision

Explanation VI -The inclusion of public rights is to give due effect to suits relating to public nuisances (Cl 91)

Clause 12—This clause is new and is necessitated by the transfer of certain of the provisions of the existing Code to Rules

Clause 13 —The provisions as to foreign judgments have been rearranged and as it is hoped stated more clearly

s Section 14—The list paragraph has been omitted. It appears to the Committee that it is not possible to munitain this distinction in the case of all Assatus Courts. The Courts of Japan for instince are entitled to be treated on the same footing as European Courts. The know of no satisfactory distinction which could be driven so as to give effect to the intention of the existing provisions and they recommend that the paragraph should be omitted and this Courts should rely on the powers given by Cl 13

Place of sung -The provisions under this heading have been collected and is arranged

Clause 10 (a) —The insertion of the words with or without rent or profits is intended to remove any difficulty there may be where the defendant does not reside within the loss limits of the Court within whose jurisdiction the property is situate

Clause 18 - The Committee have added words to this clause in order still further to restrict the taking of technical objections as to purisdiction

Classe 20—The Committee have omitted Explanation III of S 17 which has become unnecessary owing to the addition made to sub-of (c) of the words wholly or in part in relativence to the cause of action

Clause 24 —The words at any stage have been added to remove the difficulty crested by the view that a suit cannot be trusferred after the herring has once commenced as to what there is a conflict of decision

Clauses 28-35 -The provisions in Chapters III to NIII of the present Cole have been in the unum relegated to Rules but such general provisions as are believed to be essential have been preserved in Cl 26 to 35

Clause 32 -- The Committee have omitted the last paragraph of $ 130 of the Code at they think unnecessary to impose penal consequences for a default of the class indicated

PART II - EXECUTION

Clauses 36-74 -The bulk of the provisions a

but the main provisions as to the Court; by which

determined by Courts executing decrees the limit

representatives procedure in execution arrest and attachment the relegation to Collector of power to execute certain decrees the distribution of assets and resistance to execution have keen returned in the body of the Bill

Clause 46-Precept -Though a system of execution based on precepts 13 in the of p of of the Committee open to grave objection they think the idea may be ultilized for the purper of entilling.

The description of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of the purper of t

that he may troduced Cl of this interim attachment but at the same time they have empowered the Court to extend the period to meet the exigencies of particular cases

re attachment, having regard to the agency by which execution is carried into effect

Clause 47 —The Committee two omitted subcls (a) and (b) of S 241 of the exal as Code because they are strongly of opinion that questions regarding the amount of any ment profits or interest should be determined by the decree and not in execution. If this view is accepted it will be rossible to exercise an effective control over the action taken by Subordinate Courts in dealing with such matters

The Committee have re drafted sub cl (3) and made at compulsory on the Court to deter mine questions arising as to repre entitives of pirties. In their opinion it is not pedient that sentrate suits should be in-tituted for the decision of such questions. The delix and expense involved are often very great and result in the needless protraction of litigation

The explanation is intended to put an end to a conflict of judicial decision

Section 257 4 -The Committee think that S 257 A may be omitted with advantage. It was first epacted by tet \II of 1579 with a view to protect the interests of judgment debtors scarnet the everylan of undue pressure by decree holders. The section has such rise to con-Courts as found in practice to idin Contract Act is amended

s respired

Clause 51 -This clause states generally the powers leaving the details to be determined by rules. It will be immediate execution ; no longer re-tricted to one class of _ any limitation that may be found necessary will be imposed by rules terms

Clause 53 - Ha been added by the Committee in order to set at rest a question on which the High Courts are divided in opinion It is true that where a son or grandson takes any ancestral troperty by survivor hip he is bound to pay out of such property all debts of his ancestor not incurred for immoral or illegal purposes but whether the creditor can follow the properts in the hand of the son or grand on in execution is a debatable point under the Code The question is merely one of mo educe and the Committee have come to the conclusion that any controver v between the parties with regard to the liability of the son or grandson to pay the debt, of his ancestor should be determined in execution it being open to them to raise any obje tion or defence in such proceedings which they might have raised in a separate suit in stituted by the creditor the clause in question not imposing upon them a greater liability than that imno cd by the Hindu law

Classe 55 (1) second prourse - The object of this proviso is to prevent vexations forms of resistance to execution which constantly obstruct decree holders in the execution of their decrees

Clause 55 (2) -The sub clause is intended to cover the case of certain persons or classes of persons who e summary areast might as in the case of ruleary servants be attended with danger or inconvenience to the put he

Clause 61 - The Committee have reproduced this Clause from the former Bill (Cl 269 B) in accordance with what they understand to be the wishes of the Government But the conditions should in their spinton le so modified as to relieve the Courts from fixing the portion to be released from attachment

To importh; duty in the Courts would materially merease their work in a matter in regard to which they are not in a position to form the best opinion and would probably result in an undesirable lack of uniformity

Clause 62 The committee have inserted a new provision to authorize the breaking open of the outer door of a judgment debtor s house. They do not think that it would be safe to extend the operation of this provi ion to the house of a stranger Section 288 - This section of the present Gode first appears in the Code of 1877. It was not suggested by any decided case and the only explanation offered by the School Committee his whom it was introduced in as follows --

We think that the proclamation of execution sales should state the incumbrances (if any) to which the interest about to be sold is liable and we have provided that no Judge etc shall be answerable for error in the proclamation unle sat has been committed dishonestly .

The Committee are of opinion that having regard to the provisions of Act AVIII of 18.0. the ection may safely be omitted

Clause 64 - in explanation has been added to make it clear that claims within the protection of this clause include claims for rateable distribution of assets,

Clause 69 --- The provisions as to Collectors have been placed in a separate schedule—They deal with a special matter and are not of general application

Clause 73 -The Committee have slightly aftered the wording of this Clause in order to bring it into line with the Transfer of Property Act, 1892, S 96

PART HI -- INCIDENTAL PROCEEDINGS

The general powers of Courts in regard to commissions have been summarised in Cl 75 and the detailed provision will be found in the First Schedule

PART IV -SUITS IN PARTICULAR CASES

The bulk of the corresponding part of the present Gode will be found in the Rules. The provisions as to suits by alene, etc, have been returned in the Bill and sine only of the provisions relating to suits by or against the Government. There is a general clause defining the nature of internededs suits.

Glauss 81—The Committee thank that the same measure of protection should be afforded to the defendant where Government underthies the defence as where the Government makes no application for the purpose, and it appears to the Committee that the proper protection should be that the defendant should be exempt from meane arrest and his property from means estate ment. They therefore propose to strike out the provise from Cl 259 and to alter sub Cl (a) of Cl 270 so at to give effect to this

Clause 80 (2)—The Committee have inserted words in this sub clause to make it clear that the decision of the Government is final and not open to question by the Court A doubt had been raised on the point

PART V -SPECIAL PROCEEDINGS

Arbitration and suits relating to public matters have been discussed in the former park of this report

Clauss 99 (Public Charties)—As a doubt has been expressed in at least one reported decision whether S 303 is or is not mandatory, the Committee have thought it desirable, in order to estite this question to introduce sub of (2)

PART VI -SUPPLEMENTAL PROCEEDINGS

Here again a leading provision has been retained in the Bill, and the datails of procedure have been relegated to Rules.

PART VII -APPEALS

Giauts 97 —The Committee have insorted an express provision to compel litigastic appeal from prelimitary decrees, and have estopped thom, on their taitive to do so, from resust objections to such decrees in appeals from fine leteros. On this point they accept the manimost opinion of the Calcutta High Court. They think it unreasonable that parties should sillor proceedings to be carried on to their final stage and large cost to be recurred if they intend to rely upon objections which could be taken at an earlier stage.

Glauss 99 —The Committee have extended this clause in order to give the Gourts a large function on dealing with irregularities in proceedings, and they have unserted approximate the point decided to I L R. 26 Bom 259 and I L R. 27 Mad 80 and 10 a recent decision of the Calcutti High Court.

Clause 100 -The Committee have struck out the word 'specified' in the expression 'specified law or usage," as being in their opinion redindant

Clause 105—Though the remarks of the Privy Council in Mohethur Singh v This Bengal Government (7 Moo IA 283) are wide enough to embrace an appeal term as order of remand the Committee think those orders were probably not in their Lordshijs contemplation when they condemned the new that a failure to appeal from an interlocutory order.

should deprive the person aggreeted of his right to object to such order when subsequently appealing from the decrea. And the Committee think there are good reasons on the score of delay and expense for treating an appeal from an older of remand as a spacial case and practiding an appellant from taking, on an appeal from decree any objection that might have been urged by way of appeal from an order of remand

The Committee have deleted the word such to remove a difficulty it creates (10 Moo LA 340, 413 12 Moc I \ 157)

PART VIII - REFERENCE REVIEW AND REVISION

These provisions are not substantially altered. They are summarised in this Part and the details are in rules

PART 1X -CHARTERED HIGH COURTS

This is not materially altered

ν.

PART \ -RULES.

bee of ereations in the former Part of this report

PART VI -MISCELLANEOUS

The Committee have emitted S 646 as they see no reason specially to differentiate the case of a Remotrar and it is believed that in practice no use is made of the section.

Clause 197 -The Committee have inserted the words 'or other person after the word "officer' in sub Cl (b) in order to give the High Court power to relieve the officers of the Courts of the work of administering affidavits in cases in which it may be necessary to do so. It has been represented to them by the Calcutta High Court that this relief is much required

Clause 140 -The terms of S 583 of the Code do not justify the practice founded on it, and the Committee have therefore re east the section so as to bring it into closer conformity with that practics

Clause, 145 and 148 to 150 are new. They are intended to enlarge the discretion of Courts

B-RULES

The Committee think that the division of the rules into orders will be found convenient for the porposes of citation and reference

Under Cl 35 the Court has full power to apportion costs The Committee understand that in practice the provision of $ 25 is not operative in the mniassil and that part of the section which related to costs has not therefore been reproduced

- O I, R 3 (S 28) -The Committee realize that the words in respect of the same matter' in R. S. hate given rise to great difficulty, and they think it advisable to follow the wording of the English rule and to omit them
- O I. Br 5 and 7 -The Committee thought that it was desirable to add O AVI, Br 5 and 7, of the English rules
- O III, R 2 (S 37) -The provisions of existing Codes which are represented by this clause are in somewhat different terms and are himited to persons holding general powers of attorney within certain local limits. The Committee think it unnecessary to preserve these limitations and have made the sub clause general It follows that the present Cl 37 (b) becomes unneces sary It is included in sub Cl (a)

The last pragraph of S 37 has been omitte? us no longer necessary

O III, R 4 (S 33) -The Committee are uncertain whether it is necessary to make a reference to the Court of the Judicial Commissioner of Sindh The point is one for the Govern ment of Bombay

NOTES ON SCHEDULES

SCHEDULE IV

The Committee have amended S 22 of the Limitation Act to supply an omission which has been noticed by the High Courts namely the absence of any provision with regard to a devolution of interest grade to the where it takes place otherwise than by reason of death. The section as amended will include not only cases in which a devolution of interest takes place pandante like want to death but also to other cases in which such devolution of courts.

The Code [S 312] contemplates the confirmation of a sale of immovable project immediately on the expiration of the thirty days allowed by Art 166 of the Limitation Schedule But the period allowed for an application to set asade a sale on the ground that the judgment debter has no subsole interest therein is sairy days flat 172]. The results that in some Previnces the confirmation of a sales adapted for sairy days whilst in other Provinces sales which have been already confirmed are lable to be set aside. The Committee think that in the matter of limitation an implication under S 311 and they therefore propose to repeal Article 172 and to smend tricle 166 so es to include applications under S 313.

SPEECH

The Hon ble Mr ERLE RICHARDS

The Hon ble Mr ERLE RICHARDS — My Lord I have the honour to present the Report of the Salext Committee on the Bill to ensablate and amend the law, relating to the procedure of the Cente of Cavil Indicature and annexed to it a copy of the Bill in which the amendments suggested by the Committee are shown in tathemed type.

It will be seen from these papers that the Committee recommend no alcierations of a radical kind in the Bill as settled by the Committee which say it slimb during the past summer. There are a number of amendments of detail suggested which taken together effect a substantial improvement but the main lines of the Bill have been accepted.

The principal feature of movelty in the BMI as introduced as the re-arrangement of the clauses and the relegation of minor provisions to a schedulow which can be amended or added to by High Courts subject to the advise of Ende Committees. The proposal has met with general acceptance Local Governments and High Courts are at one in thinking that it will effect a valuable improvement in the machinery of our event procedure and the Committee agree will then

"Two amondments have been introduced in that part of the Bill which deals with the rule making power. The first is the in cition of a proviso that Rules before being made in x = x

published with the result that under S 23 of the General Clauses act there will be an opportunity for the public to criticise any proposals before they become law. This suggestion was pit forward by the British Indrin Association and the Committee think that it is one of value. The second change is in the composition of the Rule Committees. It has been pointed out this Rule Committees ought to have among their members some gentlemen in tonch with implicit practice. The Bill as introduced provided that one of the Judges on the Committee should have had mufassil experience but the Committee think that this in itself is hardly sufficient. They suggest therefore that there should be a Subordinate Judge on each Rule Committee and that there should be power also to appoint a Vakil or pleader practising in the mufassil. They suggest therefore that the Lull should not come into operation at once on passing but that there should be an interval sillowed in order that the public and profession may make them selves acquainted with the new arrangement.

The amendments of the other provisions of the Bill do not call for any special mention on the present occasion. Many of them are in the nature of corrections or improvements of drafting. Since the Bill was introduced in this Councillt has been once more examined and revise by some of our colleagues and the entiresms on it have been carefully considered and digested in the Legislative Department. In that way the work of the Committee has been much losseed. This is the fourth Committee which has now dealbrated ou cityl procedure and it is safe to say that there is no conceivable point which has not been fully discussed during those deliberations. I would point out my Lord that the present Committee like the Simla Committee are unanimous in their approval of this Bill.

and of all the High Courts in Judia. In our opinion it will give a much needed clasticity to our pulsical procedure and will enable minor defects to be remoded as they arise without reserve to the Legislature, and we recommend it to the Council. We have introduced two changes into the Legislature, and we recommend it to the Council. We have introduced two changes into Park X of the Bill relating to the rain awhing powers. In the first place we have provided that Rules must be published before they are made, the result will be that S 23 of the General Rules must be published before they are made, the result will be that S 23 of the General have also made a change in that there will be an opportunity for the public to offer criticisms on any proposals for alterations of procedure before those proposals are finally passed into law. We have also made a change in the composition of this Rule Committee. It has been suggested by more than one authority that the interests of the mofussit were not sufficiently represented on those Committees as continued under the Bill. We recognise the force of this criticism and have accordingly provided that there shall be a Subordmata Judge on each Rule Committee and that the Table and the profession of the practicism in the mofusal will be eligible. We further recommend that the Dill hall not come into operation until the Lift Junary 1909 in order that the Public and the profession may have an opportunity of making themselves familiar with the

8. We have carefully considered the cutterium on the full as introduced and the changes which we recommend are summarised below. It will be observed that we do not advise any departures of importance from the conclusions of the Special Committee which not at Simila during the part summer. That Committee had before it a mass of opiniona from quitient and other authorities all over India dealing with every point of civil procedure, and they arrived at that conclusions only after a careful consideration of those opinions. We should not therefore its any case have discented from them without strong reason, but now pudgment those conclusions are right and we accept them. Since the full was introduced this been again examined and revised by some of our colleagues and the criticisms on it have been fugue against and revised by some of our colleagues and the criticisms on it have been fugue against the Legisla tive Department. By these means our deliberations have been much expedited.

CLAUSES.

Clause 2 (2) -The definition of "degree" has been generally accepted

Clause 11—We have restored the word 'former' and have inserted explanation I on the exgression of Sir Bhashyam Tyengar to remove a conflict of authority as to the meaning of the expression "former suit."

Explanation V has been omitted. We think it is liable to misconstruction and that the law is well established apart from the explanation

Clause 22 —We have emitted Cl 22 of the Bill as introduced, as in our opinion it is unnecessary. We think that sufficient provision is made for transfers under the succeeding Clause.

which compelled applications to the High Courts rict Court This in our opinion merely duplicates

Clause 25—C1 25 of the Bill as forceduced has been rendered unoccessary by the omission of Cl 22 We have accordingly taken it out and have put in its place a new clause taking Power for the Governor General in Council to transfer cases from one High Court to a rother

Clause 59 —The remaining provisions as to the release of judgment debtors have keen brought up from the Rules and incorporated in this clause

Clause 60 (1) (g) — We have omitted the words military or civil because they appear to be of no value. The word pensioners of itself covers every class of pensioner

Clause 96 (3) of the Bill as introduced has been emitted. The case law on the subject is sufficiently clear and considerable objection has been taken to the sub clause

Cause 95 -The wording of the provi o has been altered at now deals only with the declsion on the point of law referred

SCHEDULE I

Order 1

Bules I and 3 - The words act or have been added before the word transaction

Rule 3 -Th: has been amplified so as to bring it into fine with R 1

Rule 5 -The words cause of action have been struct out

They have given rise to considerable difficulty in Eugland

Rule 8-We have on the suggestion of the Advocate General of Madras added the words for for the benefit of after the words on behalf of .

Order III

Rule 4 (3) -We have adopted the elternative draft suggested by the Simila Committee in their report Order 11

Rule 19 -We have substituted the words he shall not be permitted to amend as the case may be for the words such order to amend become roid

O.der I II

Rule 17 (1) -On the suggestion of the British Indian Association the word account. has been substituted for the word book

Order IX

Rule 4 -We have struck out the provisions about limitation contained in this rule These provisions will be incorporated in the Bill to consolidate and amend the Limitation ict

Rule 13 -We think it necessary to provide specially for cases in which it may not be possible to set uside the decree as against the applicant only

Order XX.

Rule 18 -This Rule has been altered so as to correspond with the amended Cl 54.

Order XXI.

Rule I (2) -This sub rule has been inserted on the suggestion of the British India Asso. ation

Rule 7 -The words "or of the jurisdiction of the Court which passed it" have been omitted In our opinion a Court executing the decree of another Court ought not to go into any question as to the jurisdiction of the Court which passed it

Rule 20 -This Rule is new It is inserted in order to make it clear that the provisions as to cross decrees and cross claims apply to the case of mortgago decrees. The Rule also makes it clear that the expressions "decree for the payment of money" and other similar expressions in the Code do not include a decree for sale in enforcement of a mortgage or charge

Rule 45 -We have decided to recommend the omission of this Rule from the Bill It was taken from the Bill of 1303 but met with considerable criticism, and strong objection has been taken to it by the Madras Board of Revenue and the British India Association In our opinion the procedure presembed in this Rule is cumbrone and there would be little or no practl cal advantage from it

Rule 90 -The words 'or fraud ' have been added after the word 'irregularity" We think that the existing law as contained in S 311 of the present Code is defective, the omission in the section to refer to fraud as a ground for setting aside a sale having led some Courts to hold that an order on an application setting up fraud as a ground for relief is, unlike an order made on an application under S 311, a decree and open to second appeal This result, which often involves a considerable prolongation of these proceedings, is in our opinion undesirable. We think that applications for the setting aside of sales should, so far as the procedure applicable to them is concerned, stand on the same footing whether that are hazed on the ground of pregularity or on the ground of fraud

Rules 95 and 96 - We have struck out the provisions about limitations contained in these rules We agree with the Hon'ble Mr Justice Millor that it would be more appropriate to incorporate them in the Limitation Act, and we have suggested their incorporation in the Bill to amend and consolidate that let which is now before Council

Rules 3 and 4 -Rr 3 and 4 have been amended so as to provide that if no application for substitution is made within the time allowed by law the suit shall abate. We have struck out the provision that the Court may make an order declaring the abatement as in our opinion it is unnecessary and likely to give rise to difficulty

Rule 6 - The provision as to ante dating the judgment has been struck out and in its stead we suggest a provision to the effect that the judgment shall have the same force and effect as if it had been pronounced before the death took place. In our opinion this is all that is required

Order XXXIV

Some of the Rules in this Order have been re drafted

The Transfer of Property Act does not contain any provision for the passing of a final decree in cases where payment is mode in accordance with the terms of the preliminary decree This is in our opinion an omission and we have provided in Rr 3 (1), 5 (1) and 8 (1) for the passing of final decrees in such cases

We approve of the proposal to repeal the provisions of 8 90 of the Transfer of Property Act We think that these provisions have worked considerable hardship and are not really needed. The first part of the section enacts that a mortgages shall not bring the mortgaged property to sale otherwise than by in: precludes the mortgages from selling with the mortgage debt at is in mortgages to purchase the equity "

quent to and distinct from the mortgage transaction, and we can see no reason why it should not be equally compotent to him to have it sold in satisfaction of any claim which he may base against the mortgagor unconnected with the mortgago (Aktaratmal v Datm I L R 32 Cal 296 , Lisel v Peere, 1902 A C 461) In so far as it picludes the mortgagee from selling the property under a sudement for the mortgage debt at serves no neeful nurpose We understand that the provision was enacted to provont mortgagees from sung their mortgagors on the debt as such and in execution selling the mortgagor s interest in the property we however think that no such provision was needed seeing that under the law as it stood viter to the let the Court never allowed the sale of a bare equity of redemption under a judgment on the corenant [Sued I man v Rajcoomer 23 W R 187 Ahara Jan al v Daim L L R 32 Cal 2 tol

Octor M.

hule 4 -We have redrafted this sule on the lines of S 18 (4) of the Provincial Insolvency to: 1907 We think that the sour to imprison receivers is too wide and should be omitted

Order \LI

Ful. 24 We have struck out this rule as in our opinion it is unduly restrictive

Orler 71.111

Rick 1 We suggest that there should be appeals from orders pronouncing judgment against a party under Order VIII Rule 10 Order A Rule 4 and Order XVI Rule 20

The u orders are under the present law appealable as decrees but having regard to the den nition of a decree in the Code they would no longer be appealable in that way and we think it necessary to make them appeniable as orders. We have also given an appeal against an order made under Rule 21 of Order \[1]

Appendices - The forms have been amplified and where nece cary re-drafted. We think that as now cattled they are an improvement on the forms in the present Code
